3rd War Alderman Wants Hutton Park Placed on Program

Alderman E. H. Sammons Appeals to Mayor to Continue Park This Coming Season

In an endeavor to have Hutton Park continued this summer under supervised recreation counselors, Alderman E. H. Sammons of the Third Ward has appealed to Mayor Edelmuth to restore this park to the program for this year so that the children of this area can enjoy recreational facilities.

Alderman Sammons has submitted to The Freeman a copy of the letter he has submitted to the mayor, which reads as follows:

288 Clifton Avenue
Kingston, New York
April 16, 1946

Dear Mayor Edelmuth:

Having been unsuccessful in my efforts to see you in your office during the last few days, I am taking this means to call to your attention a matter which vitally affects the people of the Third Ward.

According to a press announcement and according to information received from representatives of the city administration there will be no supervised recreation for children at Hutton Park this summer.

During the past several years a great many children have used Hutton Park for recreational purposes. The parents of these children knew that they were in safe and wholesome surroundings and benefiting from the trained supervision of the recreational department counselors. The children have benefited immeasurably from the skills that were taught and acquired and from the lessons learned from cooperative play in a group.

In a period in which it is all too easy for children to have their talents directed into wrong channels it is most important that there be no relaxation of our efforts to guide them.

I assume that the cost might have led to the conclusion that

Hyatt Applies For Retirement

City Water Department Employee Has Served 27 Years

Walter E. Hyatt of 35 Janet street, after 27 years of efficient service with the Kingston water department, has applied for retirement from active duty, effective May 16.

Mr. Hyatt entered the employ of the water department on July 11, 1919, as an inspector, serving throughout the administration of John H. Harrison and Henry D. Darrow as superintendents.

He carried on the duties of inspector for a number of years and then was promoted to the post of foreman which he has held ever since.

Superintendent John J. Byrne said today that in the retirement of Mr. Hyatt, the water department was losing the services of one of its most efficient employees.

During the most efficient quarter century that Mr. Hyatt has been a member of the city's water department he has seen many changes and improvements made in the system.

Palmer Canfield was mayor of the city when Mr. Hyatt assumed his duties as an inspector with the water department. The department was in charge of the late John H. Harrison and Henry D. Darrow, who had held the post of superintendent over a long period of years. Mr. Hyatt was later succeeded by the late Henry D. Darrow. Shortly after the death of Mr. Darrow the water board appointed Mr. Byrne, the present superintendent, to the post of superintendent.

As foreman of the water department, Mr. Hyatt became thoroughly acquainted with the water system of the city, and his work made him familiar with the location of the various water mains.

Bowles Expects Better Conditions in 2 Months

Senate Committee Asks Further Details on Meat Distribution; Bread Problem May Develop, if Europe Is to Get Help

Washington, April 16 (AP)—The government mapped a new attack on the snarled food situation today involving butter, bread, meat—and black markets.

War-time controls were ordered slapped back in an effort to spur butter production and Stabilization Director Chester Bowles foresaw a "real improvement within the next 60 days" on this front.

The Senate Agriculture Committee called for more details on factors dislocating meat distribution, while O.P.A. and the Agriculture Department moved to restore other wartime controls on slaughtering with the aim of spreading available supplies more evenly.

A potential bread problem had members of the Senate Small Business Committee seeking ways of meeting famine relief quotas for overseas without impairing the nation's flour supply. Baking industry spokesmen told the committee yesterday that if these supplies fall 25 per cent below last year government bread rationing or black markets in the food are probable.

The move for butter production was bracketed with O.P.A. action to keep consumers bills at their present levels for milk, butter, cheese and other dairy products. A program of larger subsidies for dairy farmers was announced yesterday to compensate for higher feed and labor costs.

Whipping Cream Affected

On butter, the O.P.A. aimed at overcoming a situation which had made it more profitable to use butterfat for ice cream and other products than for butter. Accordingly, the wartime ban will be restored on the sale of whipping cream and restrictions will be placed on the amount of butterfat in ice cream. The program also includes price ceilings for the first time on cream used in bakery products and ice cream. Leonard E. Hertz of Omaha, chairman of the Dairy Industry Committee, contended in a statement that the new program would lead to a decline in milk production "and consequently to a shortage of butter."

Sam Doyle, president of the Building Trades Council and business agent of the Structural Steel and Iron Workers Union, was present at yesterday's six-hour confab in Kingston.

Among the major issues involved are the employees' demands for a five-day, 40-hour week; a request by the iron workers for an hourly wage scale of $2.30, a thirty-cent increase, the Freeman informant said.

One of Major Issues

The common labor demand for $1.15 per hour over the prevailing rate of $1 is one of the major issues of controversy. The basic or "book rate" for help, established by the State of New York City labor departments on the basis of actual surveys of labor conditions in areas affected, figures prominently in the negotiations. The book rate for common labor is 87 cents an hour.

Officials of the Healy company are quoted as having stated they made original bids for the project on the basis of "book" rates for labor. Some unions are asking a substantial increase over "book rates." Only two unions are standing by the book. All changes or increases in salary, however, are subject to approval by the Wage Adjustment Board.

The Kingston Metal Trades Council was not represented at yesterday's meeting and negotiations were directly between the Healy Company and representatives of the Building Trades

A-Bomb Experiment Cost Expected to Be 110 Millions

Washington, April 16 (AP)—The atom bomb task force believes the cost of the Bikini experiments will be no greater than that for "one large new ship"—which could be about $110,900,000, the current price of a super-battleship.

Vice Adm. W. H. P. Blandy commander for the joint Army-Navy operation, said "the unknown" had estimated the tests would cost $425,000,000 for target ships and another $100,000,000 for other expenses.

"Such figures are gross exaggerations," the admiral asserted in a statement.

Blandy also made these other observations:

Afternoon Thief Is Reported; Goes After Jewels, Cash

Careful Worker Leaves No Indication of Operations; All Jobs Have Been Uptown

A sneak thief, who works only the afternoon shift and has a preference for jewelry and cash, is reported working in Kingston, and several jobs have already been reported to the police.

The work of the sneak thief has all the earmarks of a clever woman, it is said, as many of the articles reported taken have been hidden in bureau drawers, and were not missed until several days later when the owner had use for them.

In searching through bureau drawers the thief has been very careful to replace every article so that when the drawer was opened there was nothing to indicate that the sneak thief had searched through it for valuable jewelry or money.

Indications point to the fact that the sneak thief works only in the afternoons when the housewives have left the house on shopping tours.

The sneak thief's activities so far have been confined to the uptown section of the city.

O.P.A. Grants Price Boost

Washington, April 16 (AP)—O.P.A. today granted a price increase to the makers of jams, jellies, apple butter and fruit preserves to cover a half cent a pound rise in sugar prices authorized February 10. Retail prices may go up slightly as a result, O.P.A. said. The one-pound jar of jam or jelly, for instance, may go up about one cent. O.P.A. said the higher costs of sugar means an increase to jam and jelly producers of about one and one-half to two per cent in processing costs.

Rifkin Predicts Help Shortage in City Restaurants

Union Organizer Says He Doubts Another City in U. S. Pays as Low Wages

Charging that the wage scale for waitresses in Kingston is the lowest in the country, in cities of comparable size, Lawrence Rifkin international organizer of the Hotel and Restaurant International Alliance and Bartenders International League of America, today predicted an acute shortage of experienced hotel and restaurant help in Kingston this summer.

"I do not think there is a city in the United States that pays as low as 20 cents an hour for waitresses," Mr. Rifkin said.

"Unless some salary adjustments are made," he continued, "Kingston restaurant, hotel and tavern operators will find themselves seriously handicapped by the lack of experienced help. With its present wage scale Kingston cannot hope to compete with the better paying jobs in seasonal occupations in the area."

Rifkin is in Kingston for the organizational meeting of the Hotel, Restaurant, Luncheonette Workers Union and Bartenders International League of America, scheduled Wednesday night at 9 o'clock at the headquarters of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, 277 Fair street.

An intensive campaign has been under way for the past two weeks to affiliate local workers with the parent body which claims a membership of 400,000. The national headquarters is located in Cincinnati. Reaction to the campaign has been extremely favorable, Mr. Rifkin said.

"Substandard and Inferior"

Asserting that Kingston waitresses are working under the same wage scale of 15 years ago, Rifkin said the wages paid here are definitely "substandard and inferior to any city in the region."

Kingston waitresses in addition to regular duties are forced to do work after hours in tasks not contemplated in their contracts.

Committee to Meet With Rail Agent

Chamber of Commerce Hopes for Better Train Service

The Transportation Committee of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce will meet with T. R. Ruth, Division Passenger Agent of the New York Central Railroad, tonight at the Governor Clinton at 8 o'clock to discuss the question of better train service to New York and Albany.

Members of the local committee, of which Bert Bishop is chairman, have outlined a strong case for presentation to the railroad official and it is believed that improvements will be effected in West Shore passenger service.

On the basis of replies to the recent poll conducted by the Chamber of Commerce, the Transportation Committee will concentrate on securing one good morning and evening train.

A total of 52 replies were received by the Chamber of Commerce office, Secretary Donald Williams said today, but strong support for better train service has come from several quarters.

Twenty-two persons expressed a preference for a morning train from New York arriving in Kingston between 9 and 9:30 a. m., while 20 favored one that would arrive an hour later.

In the matter of departures, eighteen replies favored a train leaving Kingston between 6 and 6:30 p. m., while 12 preferred a train between 7 and 7:30. There were scattered votes for various other preferences listed on the ballot. Requests for improved service to Albany did not center on any one time.

A preliminary meeting with N.Y.C.R.R. officials resulted favorably, Secretary Williams reported. He predicted the railroad would give serious consideration to the Kingston proposals, particularly during the summer season.

Mob Wrecks Montana Homes

Below, house furnishings from another wrecked home, tumbled about in the yard. (AP Wirephoto).

Butte, Mont., April 16 (AP)—This strike-bred copper capital of 40,000 began relaxing today from three days and nights of vandalism as Sheriff Al McLeod credited volunteer war veterans and members of the striking C.I.O. Miners' Union with helping ease the tension.

While police and sheriff's officers last night waited for telephone callers to carry out threats to visit more homes of nonstrikers, representatives of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (C.I.O.) patrolled Butte pleading with crowds to keep order.

McLeod said groups of girls, boys and women broke up without trouble and he added before going home early today for his first sleep since Friday night.

"We don't expect any more trouble, and won't need outside help. But I've been authorized to swear in 100 special deputies and I expect to have them all today, just in case."

Many of the 55 he had sworn in this morning, he said, were American Legion members and other veterans, all of whom volunteered.

Several groups of women and children, threatened by anonymous telephone callers, were moved from their homes for protection last night. And McLeod disclosed three juveniles are in custody for

General Makes Decision Due to Manchurian Situation; Civil War Cited

(By The Associated Press)

General Marshall, recognizing the urgency of the Manchurian fighting, tomorrow will fly direct from Tokyo to Peiping, the Sino-American Truce Headquarters, to again throw his powerful influence into peace negotiations.

Marshall, President Truman's special envoy to China, canceled an important conference with Chinese Premier T. V. Soong in Shanghai to go direct to the truce headquarters city.

There he will meet the Sino-American Committee of three which—with substitutes for all three original members—has not had authority to carry out its assigned mission of affecting a truce between battling Chinese Government and Communist forces. He effected both military and political truces last January, but neither was put into effect and shortly after he went to Washington for conferences, the situation worsened.

Marshall's decision to fly to Peiping was made after the No. 2 Chinese Communist leader, Gen. Chou En-Lai, called the fighting in Manchuria full scale civil war. Both Marshall and Chou were original members of the committee of three, along with Minister of War Chen Cheng, who is ill. Marshall conferred with MacArthur in Tokyo today.

Withdrawal Seems End Of Matter

Stettinius Says Soviet Delegate 'Questioned Motives' of United States

Gromyko Replies

Russian Says U. S. Stand 'Illogical' One

New York, April 16 (AP)—The United Nations Security Council today postponed action on Russia's proposal for dropping the Russian-Iranian case and adjourned until tomorrow with three delegates demanding immediate consideration of Poland's charges against Franco Spain.

New York, April 16 (AP)—The United Nations secretary-general expressed doubts today that the Security Council could retain the heated Russian-Iranian case on its agenda.

In a memorandum submitted before the council convened this morning, Secretary-General Trygve Lie said that Iran's withdrawal of the complaint "would seem to remove the question automatically from the agenda."

"There may well be no way," he said, "in which the council may keep the Iranian case before it."

His memorandum was referred to the council's committee of experts for a decision within two days.

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., resuming the debate against Russia's proposal to drop the Iranian case from the agenda immediately, charged that Andrei A. Gromyko, Russian delegate, had "questioned the motives of the United States."

Stettinius said he regretted the Soviet action. Then he stated again his judgment that it would be "unwise for the council to drop the Iranian matter."

He said the Council could not ignore the fact that "the sudden reversal of the Iranian position occurred while Soviet troops still were physically in Iran."

France Offers Compromise

At the outset of the meeting, France offered a compromise motion to turn the case over to the secretary general to collect information for the Council's report to the General Assembly next September 3.

Stettinius said his opposition to the Russian attempt to erase the case from the agenda did not in any way mean that the United States questioned Russia's integrity.

Gromyko, taking up the case against Stettinius' spokes, said that Russia and Iran have reached an agreement on all points and that both the Soviet and Iranian governments wanted the case dropped.

"It is impossible to desire a quick and calm settlement of the Iranian case and at the same time insist on keeping the case on the agenda," Gromyko declared.

Calling Stettinius' position "illogical," Gromyko said: "The delegate from the United States sacrifices logic in order to prolong and inflate this so-called Iranian question."

"I called things by their names yesterday and I did not expect the delegate of the United States to agree."

Gromyko in his remarks yesterday expressed "doubt" that the United States and Britain want a peaceful settlement of the case.

Butte's Uprising Is Eased; Veterans, C.I.O. Men Credited

Volunteers Patrol Copper Capital, Plead With Groups to Return to Their Homes

Butte, Mont., April 16 (AP)—This strike-bound copper capital of 40,000 began relaxing today from three days and nights of vandalism as Sheriff Al McLeod credited volunteer war veterans and members of the striking C.I.O. Miners' Union with helping ease the tension.

While police and sheriff's officers last night waited for telephone callers to carry out threats to visit more homes of nonstrikers, representatives of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (C.I.O.) patrolled Butte pleading with crowds to keep order.

McLeod said groups of girls, boys and women broke up without trouble and he added before going home early today for his first sleep since Friday night.

"We don't expect any more trouble, and won't need outside help. But I've been authorized to swear in 100 special deputies and I expect to have them all today, just in case."

Many of the 55 he had sworn in this morning, he said, were American Legion members and other veterans, all of whom volunteered.

Several groups of women and children, threatened by anonymous telephone callers, were moved from their homes for protection last night. And McLeod disclosed three juveniles are in custody for continuing on Page Five

Withdrawal Seems End Of Matter

Stettinius Says Soviet Delegate 'Questioned Motives' of United States

Gromyko Replies

Russian Says U. S. Stand 'Illogical' One

New York, April 16 (AP)—The United Nations Security Council today postponed action on Russia's proposal for dropping the Russian-Iranian case and adjourned until tomorrow with three delegates demanding immediate consideration of Poland's charges against Franco Spain.

New York, April 16 (AP)—The United Nations secretary-general expressed doubts today that the Security Council could retain the heated Russian-Iranian case on its agenda.

In a memorandum submitted before the council convened this morning, Secretary-General Trygve Lie said that Iran's withdrawal of the complaint "would seem to remove the question automatically from the agenda."

"There may well be no way," he said, "in which the council may keep the Iranian case before it."

This memorandum was referred to the council's committee of experts for a decision within two days.

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., resuming the debate against Russia's proposal to drop the Iranian case from the agenda immediately, charged that Andrei A. Gromyko, Russian delegate, had "questioned the motives of the United States."

Stettinius said he regretted the Soviet action. Then he stated again his judgment that it would be "unwise for the council to drop the Iranian matter."

He said the Council could not ignore the fact that "the sudden reversal of the Iranian position occurred while Soviet troops still were physically in Iran."

France Offers Compromise

At the outset of the meeting, France offered a compromise motion to turn the case over to the secretary general to collect information for the Council's report to the General Assembly next September 3.

Stettinius said his opposition to the Russian attempt to erase the case from the agenda did not in any way mean that the United States questioned Russia's integrity.

Gromyko, taking up the case again after Stettinius spoke, said that Russia and Iran have reached an agreement on all points and that both the Soviet and Iranian governments wanted the case dropped.

"It is impossible to desire a quick and calm settlement of the Iranian case and at the same time insist on keeping the case on the agenda," Gromyko declared.

Calling Stettinius' position "illogical," Gromyko said:

"The delegate from the United States sacrifices logic in order to prolong and inflame this so-called Iranian question."

"I called things by their names yesterday and I did not expect the delegate of the United States to agree."

Gromyko in his remarks yesterday expressed "doubt" that the United States and Britain want a peaceful settlement of the case.

Maid of honor to the queen will be Miss Hilda Tiedemann, brunette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Tiedemann of Linderman avenue extension. The remainder of the court will be chosen following Easter vacation.

The queen and maid of honor were elected from four candidates: the Misses Marijnn Camnitz, Theresa Carr, Mary Schoonmaker and Hilda Tiedemann. The nominations were made by members of the senior class.

Shidehara Says His Duty To Japan Is to Stay on Job

Tokyo, April 16 (AP)—Premier Shidehara said today he feels it is his duty to Japan to stay on the job and that he might break a life-long precedent by "making connections with" existing political parties to keep his cabinet in office.

The 73-year-old baron was asked at a press conference whether any suggestion from General MacArthur had persuaded him to retain office since Wednesday's general election. "Absolutely not," he declared.

He firmly refused a Japanese reporter's sharp challenge that public opinion demanded that he step down "and abide by the outcome of the nation's first democratic election.

Shidehara said no party had won a majority and that the situation could not be stabilized by the resignation of his government.

On the other hand, he said, he felt a responsibility in seeing Japan's new constitution—which outlaws war—through the special Diet session, scheduled to open May 13.

In the past, whatever government happened to be in power "unfortunately influenced every election," but his government took no part in the balloting, he said. The government had no party on the ballot.

Liberals received the largest number of Diet seats—approximately 300—of the 466 members.

Extract to Kill Tumors, Cancers Told by Doctors

Alcoholic Substance Also Sets Up Immunity in Albino Rats, Paper Reveals

Philadelphia, April 16 (AP)—An alcoholic extract which destroys tumors and cancers and sets up immunity against the growths in inbred albino rats has been developed by three Philadelphia scientists who revealed their experiments in a paper written for the Journal of Immunology.

Dr. Paul Myron Aptekman, chemist at the Wistar Institute of Anatomy and Biology, produced the alcoholic extract. He was aided by Dr. Margaret Reed Lewis, research expert on cancer, and Dr. Helen Dean King, who inbred the rats for the experiments.

The extract has been tested successfully only on the rats and is not ready for use on human beings, the scientists said. They stated further:

"To the best of our knowledge these are the first experiments in which the injection into tumors of a substance such as the concentrate brought about oncolysis (destruction of a tumor) that arose in rats of its own inbred strain, and was followed by the establishment of tumor immunity in the majority of treated rats."

Experiments Continue
Dr. Aptekman said the experiments are being continued and insisted the work is still in the preliminary stage and not ready for a test of human beings.

"Cancer differs from the majority of diseases that baffle human understanding," the scientists' paper stated, "in that while it is possible to remove or destroy the primary growth, there is always a chance that already a minute portion of it has been transported to a favorable site for its growth in one of the vital organs."

"For this reason, investigators have searched for a method of producing an immunity that will protect the host from later growths of the same cancer."

In our investigations we found that injections of an alcoholic extract prepared from rapidly growing cancers into the primary growth destroyed it in such a manner as to develop in the treated hosts an immunity from subsequent growth of the same cancer."

Immunization Reported
Dr. E. J. Farris, executive director of the Wistar Institute, told the Philadelphia Inquirer in a copyright story that the experiments enabled, for the first time in history, immunization against a growth.

The alcohol extract was injected into the growing tumors of 38 rats, the Inquirer quoted the scientists, once a day or every other day, this was the result.

Fifty-six of the 38 tumors treated with the concentrate were destroyed. In the treated rats the damaged tissue sloughed off, leaving an open sore that soon healed. Hair grew over the denuded area and eventually only a small scar showed the site of the tumor.

A graft of the same type of tumor that had been destroyed was then implanted on the other side of 32 of the healed rats to determine if they were resistant to the tumor. It failed to grow in 25 of them.

Meantime, the 24 other healed rats were kept under observation for eight to 12 months. None developed a tumor. The females bore young all of which exhibited normal behavior.

Delaney Is Given $165,000 Verdict In Federal Court
New York, April 16 (AP)—A federal court jury last night awarded Richard Delaney, 30, of Peekskill, N. Y., $165,000 damages for an accident May 3, 1945, in which he lost both legs below the hips in the New York Central railroad yards at Harmon, N. Y.

C. Austin White, counsel for the railroad which employed Delaney as a brakeman, moved to set aside the verdict on the grounds that it was excessive. He had suggested the payment of $85,000 in his summation.

White's action was opposed by Delaney's counsel, Thomas J. O'Neill, and Judge Edward A. Conger reserved decision and gave the attorneys 10 days to submit briefs.

Delaney had sought $250,000 damages. O'Neill, describing the accident during the trial, said Delaney was coupling freight cars in the yards when another train crashed into them pinning Delaney under a car wheel for 25 to 30 minutes.

Detroit 'Salome' Is Up for Review By School Board

Detroit, April 16 (AP)—The case of Lincoln High School's "Salome," whose scantily-clad dance was the hit of a recent teen-age assembly revue, went before the school board today.

An estimated 150 of the 900 rural high school students struck Monday after a rumor spread that 16-year-old Beverly Cort would be expelled for her forbidden performance in the revue.

Walter Bradley, principal, said there is no thought of expelling the girl and that she probably will not be punished at all. He said he asked the students to return to classes and to send a delegation to discuss the matter with the school board.

Beverly Bradley said, was to have worn slacks in her appearance in the assembly room. Instead, he said, she slipped out of them at the last moment and "Salome" danced in abbreviated shorts and ballet skirt with a top resembling a bathing suit.

A "vigorous protest" came from the show's sponsor, Mrs. Stella Koski, civics teacher at the school.

Ask Skit Elimination
Bradley said Mrs. Koski had asked elimination of the skit, entitled "Salome, Where She Danced," on grounds that it was more suited for adults than for school children, and that the student show people had agreed.

"Yet when the show came on, 'Salome' danced," Bradley said. "They slipped the skit back in on Mrs. Koski."

He added that Beverly's "combination" costume was not objectionable to him but agreed that it was definitely of adult caliber.

The student cast had presented the same program in evening performances outside the school, Bradley said. Neither he nor Mrs. Koski objected to it under those conditions, he went on, but felt it was out of place on the school stage.

Bradley said he didn't feel the sinuous Beverly was "too much to blame" for the furore.

Mrs. Koski, who was teaching a class when the skit went on, said she would have "stopped the show" if she'd seen "Salome" dance, but added:

"She is an excellent dancer."

Red Cross Parts Ways

Washington, April 16 (AP)—The Red Cross and the two big labor organizations came to the parting of the ways today as far as their wartime fund-raising agreement is concerned. The arrangement expires April 30 and the Red Cross issued a formal statement saying it would not be renewed. The C.I.O. already had announced yesterday that it would disassociate itself from the joint enterprise unless given a chance "to participate in Red Cross activities and services on a community level."

Three Big Cities Get Television in Commercial Way

New York, April 16 (AP)—Three of the country's major cities—New York, Washington and Philadelphia—were linked today in the nation's first permanent commercial television network.

The Allen B. du Mont Laboratories, operators of the network, said stations in Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Cincinnati would be added and that it was expected that the network would be expanded eventually into a coast-to-coast hookup.

The network went into operation last night at the opening of the new studios here of television station WABD, operated by the du Mont Laboratories. The Mayflower Hotel was the sending-receiving station at the Washington end of the cable. Sen. McMahon (D-Conn.) speaking from Washington disclosed that television would be used at the atom bomb tests at Bikini Atoll in the Pacific to record for remote observers what actually happens when the bombs explode. The television transmitters and pick-up apparatus will fly with planes in the bomb-dropping fleet, he said.

"Worlds" Thrive Again

Many colorful features of life on the Malay Peninsula were wiped out during Japanese occupation, but some which lasted were the Chinese "worlds." Singapore reports. These are large amusement parks with cabarets, theatres, picture shows, booths and stalls selling everything from shoes to razor blades. They formed a center of Chinese life. Today, they are thronged again with American, British, Australian, Dutch, Indian and Chinese servicemen.

C.P.A. Halts Jobs Violating Building

Washington, April 16 (AP)—The civilian Production Administration said today it has halted more than 3,000 construction jobs begun in violation of the three-week old building limitation order.

Morris S. Verner, chief of C.P.A.'s compliance division, said he had notified builders in these cases that they are not to resume construction without specific authorization.

Verner reported that in "many other cases" contractors had "merely excavated" and thus were ruled ineligible to proceed. The limitation order which went into effect March 26 stipulates that only construction actually underway on that date could be completed without authorization.

Verner said construction halted by C.P.A. included a liquor store in Camden, N. J.; a theatre in Dayton, Ohio; a mail order retail store in Cleveland; apartment houses and stores in Miami; an inter-building bridge in Pittsburgh; a night club in San Francisco; a hotel in Los Angeles; garage and storage buildings for a life insurance company in Hartford, Conn. and a Washington office building intended for government use.

New Development For Houses Made In Former Woods

Kingston's newest housing development has been opened under the name of the Hilltop Development, it was announced today by Alva S. Staples and W. C. Kingman, owners of the development, the former Water's Woods and farm, just off East Chester street.

There are more than a hundred building lots available in the new development, which covers between 50 and 60 acres of land.

Oscar J. Lawatch of the State of New York Bank, has purchased a homestead with an extensive mountain and river view, at the corner of Woodland avenue and Hemlock avenue, on which he plans to build an attractive brick home this season.

Other new homes are contemplated, as new streets are laid out.

The development is bounded by East Chester street, Hemlock avenue, Lawrence street and Hooker street. For years the woods were used by various organizations of the city for picnic purposes.

The woods and farm were purchased some time ago by Mr. Staples and Mr. Kingman, and they stated that they had decided to open it as a housing development to aid in relieving the acute home shortage in the city.

The large trees in the woods are being cut down and removed by Arthur Van Eiten, of Saugerties, and the land is being graded, and placed in shape for the erection of new homes.

Police School Opens At Court House Tonight

Inasmuch as a large attendance is expected at the opening session tonight of the Basic-In-Service School for law enforcement officers of Ulster and Greene counties, the opening session at least will be held in the court room of the county court house. A three-hour session is scheduled, starting at 7:30.

Instructors will be Special F.B.I. Agents J. J. Frank and D. G. Jenkins. Mr. Frank will discuss techniques and mechanics of arrest (with film). Mr. Jenkins will talk on defensive tactics.

The school, sponsored by the State Sheriffs Association and the State Chiefs of Police Association, is being conducted with the cooperation of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Sheriff Smith has invited members of all law enforcement agencies to take advantage of the facilities offered for securing a thorough training in police work.

The school will extend through eight weeks, sessions being held on Tuesday nights of each week. Diplomas will be issued to registrants who attend all of the sessions. Limited provision is made for necessary absences.

Holders of the diplomas will be qualified to attend a secondary In-Service Training School scheduled to be held in the fall of this year.

Lackawack Crews Will Seek $1.15 Rate, Is Report

Council which is expected to furnish the bulk of the labor when the project gets under way.

No Prediction Made

Healy Company officials declined to predict when work would start on the dam. No indication was given as to where the labor would come from, although most of the men are likely to be affiliated with the Building Trades Council.

C.I.O. Reports Spiked

Yesterday's negotiations completely spiked earlier reports that the C.I.O. would make a bid for jurisdictional rights at Lackawack. The report of a familiar A.F.L. figure to the C.I.O. camp in connection with the project failed to materialize.

As was reported earlier in The Freeman, the Healy Company has been dealing with A.F.L. unions and crafts for nearly a quarter of a century and it is unlikely that any change is contemplated.

Kingston Is Visited By March Winds

High winds swept through the city's streets early last evening during the rainstorm, while the official city thermometer was recording temperatures in the 60's.

The highest point reached yesterday afternoon was 69 degrees, while during the morning a low of 49 degrees was recorded.

March winds again whirled through the city early today, and the lowest temperature recorded during the night was 44 degrees.

No damage was reported in the city due to the high winds.

Diamond Is Hurt

William H. Diamond, of 74 West Union street, employed as a caulker on the Lenahan boardwalk on West Strand, was injured in a fall from the deck of a barge while at work on the yard Monday afternoon. He was removed to the Benedictine Hospital in the Conner ambulance. His condition today was reported as good at the hospital, where he is under the care of Dr. John F. Larkin.

Coal Prices Discussed

Washington, April 16 (P)—Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles said today any increase in coal prices as the result of a strike settlement would be fixed strictly on the basis of the administration's wage stabilization policies. There will be "no round about methods," he told Senator Capehart (R-Ind.) during testimony before the Senate Banking Committee on legislation to continue O.P.A. a year beyond June 30.

Women Abandon Their Prison Demonstration

Portage La Prairie, Man., April 16 (P)—Forty-five female prisoners in the Manitoba Provincial Jail for Women abandoned a demonstration against guards and police early today as falling temperatures chilled their windowless citadel.

The destructive demonstration was precipitated by the inmates' demands for better food.

Baffled police, unable to break through furniture barricades and unsuccessful in an attempt to halt the demonstrations with tear gas, contented themselves with guarding the prison to prevent any escapes.

During the night the women wandered from window to window, shouting "we want the attorney general," and occasionally singing.

Rifkin Predicts Help Shortage in City Restaurants

ected with waiting, such as mopping floors and washing dishes, he charged.

Under state laws, waitresses are limited to 45 hours weekly, Rifkin noted, but he charged employers with subterfuge in getting around the letter of the law. The use of "split shifts" and other measures sometimes compel a waitress to be "on call" for 12 hours in succession.

Waiters Some Better Off

The lot of the waiters is slightly more favorable, but the average pay is between $13 and $14 per week, the organizer said. The working hours are necessarily longer, averaging between 11 and 12 a day.

The current wage scale for Kingston bartenders ranges from $25 a week for inexperienced men to a top of $40 for first class help, Rifkin said. This is about $10 below prevailing rates for top help in Newburgh.

In only two places in the city was he able to find a bartender paid more than $40 a week, Rifkin asserted. The bartenders generally work a straight 10-hour shift.

Chambermaid Plight 'Pitiful'

The plight of the average chambermaid in Kingston is "pitiful," Mr. Rifkin said. The average wage is from $12 to $14 a week and a majority of these workers depend on tips for their living.

Some of these women are physically handicapped, extremely aged or unable to do any other type of work, he said, are the victims of unfair treatment.

The tipping psychology in Kingston is sub-standard, Rifkin continued, and there are very few places where a waitress can expect tips with any regularity. Friday and Saturday are the best tipping days, with Wednesday slightly over the average level.

No attempt will be made to establish a wage scale for the various types of workers until all establishments and employees have been classified on the basis of experience, Rifkin said. The meeting Wednesday has been called to organize a local, and point out the conditions now existing in the city.

Old Tavern Sold To Furniture Man For Local Store

The DeWall Tavern property on North Front street has been sold by Harry Gold of 122 Pearl street to William R. and Mathilda E. McClements of Route 3, Kingston, and Mr. McClements intends to alter and improve the building for use in his used furniture business. Mr. McClements has been conducting a business at 73 Crown street under the name of the Kingston Used Furniture Company. This location on Crown street will be taken over by the Hal-Mar clothing company which now occupies the building at the corner of Crown and North Front street.

Built in 1660 the DeWall tavern was one of the original stone houses of the city and for more than a century was used as a tavern where during Revolutionary days it became one of the social centers of the city. The DeWall house, which stood within the confines of the old stockade which was erected about Kingston in early colonial days to protect the villagers from Indian attacks, is built of native stone, two stories in height and the walls today are sound and firm and its great floor timbers today are in excellent shape.

When the house ceased to be conducted as a tavern it was turned into apartments and for many years continued to be occupied by various families. Of late it has not been occupied.

The DeWall tavern was known throughout this area in early days for its large ball room with its "teetering" or spring floor.

Some time ago it was reported that the building was to be sold and demolished to make room for a modern building but Harry Gold, owner, at that time declined to dispose of it and have it torn down. Recently he stated that he desired to sell it to someone who would preserve the building and improve it. This Mr. McClements intends to do. Alterations will be made to the building and a display window installed but the interior and the main walls will remain as a monument to its builders.

tinued shortages" of dairy products.

The Senate Agriculture Committee was plainly exercised about the meat situation which packer James D. Cooney testified was "a national scandal which makes prohibition look like petty crime."

With the F.B.I. ordered into action against one group of black marketers, there were hopes of curbing some illegal transactions in meat, but opinions differed sharply whether the reimposition of slaughtering controls would achieve its aim of improving the general meat situation.

Price Administrator Paul A. Porter said the effect of the controls would be to "provide for better distribution of meat supplies at ceiling prices to retail stores."

'Won't Do Any Good'

The opposite view was taken by Cooney, vice president of Wilson & Co., one of the Big Four packers. He told the Senate committee the new order "won't do any good."

"It calls for policing at the stockyards," he asserted, "but the black marketers simply will go out and buy on the farms."

The possibility of difficulties ahead for the country's bread supply was first raised yesterday by bakery industry spokesmen in connection with an earlier announcement by Secretary Anderson that a 25 per cent cut in their flour supplies will be ordered, if necessary to meet famine relief quotas.

John T. McCarthy, of Toledo, Ohio, president of the American Bakers Association, predicted such an order would mean "black market and black market prices for bakery products." His view was echoed by other representatives of the industry.

Chairman Murray (D-Mont.) promised he would try to persuade officials to "find some other way" of meeting relief needs, but Anderson gave no immediate indication of abandoning the 25 per cent reduction plan if the relief picture does not improve.

Offices Will Be Closed

All of the offices in the city hall will be closed on Friday, it was said at the mayor's office today.

Shriners Arrange For Entertainment At Annual Ball

An excellent floor show is being arranged for the annual Shriners' Ball for the benefit of the Industrial Home to be held Easter Monday night, April 22, in the municipal auditorium, and Arthur A. Davis, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported today that all of the acts will be high class.

Jerry Tomas, baritone star of the stage and radio, will be one of the soloists of the evening. He is said to have an unlimited repertoire of songs, and is slated for top honors in the vocal world.

His offerings constitute a variety of music, comedy, effervescent quips and as a special feature he presents ventriloquism, assisted by some one in the audience.

Mr. Davis said that Mr. Tomas has been recommended to the committee as a high grade entertainer, and that he will prove one of the big hits of the floor show.

Mr. Tomas has appeared on a number of programs over the National Broadcasting Co. system.

Extract to Kill Tumors, Cancers Told by Doctors

Alcoholic Substance Also Sets Up Immunity in Albino Rats, Paper Reveals

Philadelphia, April 16 (AP)—An alcoholic extract which destroys tumors and cancers and sets up immunity against the growths in inbred albino rats has been developed by three Philadelphia scientists who revealed their experiments in a paper written for the Journal of Immunology.

Dr. Paul Myron Aptekman, chemist at the Wistar Institute of Anatomy and Biology, produced the alcoholic extract. He was aided by Dr. Margaret Reed Lewis, research expert on cancer, and Dr. Helen Dean King, who inbred the rats for the experiments.

The extract has been tested successfully only on the rats and is not ready for use on human beings, the scientists said. They stated further:

"To the best of our knowledge these are the first experiments in which the injection into tumors of a substance such as the concentrate brought about oncolysis (destruction of a tumor) that arose in rats of its own inbred strain, and was followed by the establishment of tumor immunity in the majority of treated rats."

Experiments Continue
Dr. Aptekman said the experiments are being continued and insisted the work is still in the preliminary stage and not ready for a test of human beings.

"Cancer differs from the majority of diseases that baffle human understanding," the scientists' paper stated, "in that while it is possible to remove or destroy the primary growth, there is always a chance that already a minute portion of it has been transported to a favorable site for its growth in one of the vital organs."

"For this reason, investigators have searched for a method of producing an immunity that will protect the host from later growths of the same cancer."

"In our investigations we found that injections of an alcoholic extract prepared from rapidly growing cancers into the primary growth destroyed it in such a manner as to develop in the treated hosts an immunity from subsequent growth of the same cancer."

Immunization Reported
Dr. E. J. Farris, executive director of the Wistar Institute, told the Philadelphia Inquirer in a copyright story that the experiments, enabled, for the first time in history, immunization against a growth.

The alcoholic extract was injected into the growing tumors of 58 rats, the inquirer quoted the scientists, once a day or every other day, this was the result: Fifty-six of the 58 tumors treated with the concentrate were destroyed. In the treated rats the damaged tissue sloughed off, leaving an open sore that soon healed. Hair grew over the denuded area and eventually only a small scar showed the site of the tumor.

A graft of the same type of tumor that had been destroyed was then implanted on the other side of 32 of the healed rats to determine if they were resistant to the tumor. It failed to grow in 23 of them.

Meantime, the 24 other healed rats were kept under observation for eight to 12 months. None developed a tumor. The females bore young all of which exhibited normal behavior.

Delaney Is Given $165,000 Verdict In Federal Court

New York, April 16 (AP)—A federal court jury last night awarded Richard Delaney, 30, of Peekskill, N. Y., $165,000 damages for an accident May 3, 1945, in which he lost both legs below the hips in the New York Central railroad yards at Harmon, N. Y.

C. Austin White, counsel for the railroad which employed Delaney as a brakeman, moved to set aside the verdict on the grounds that it was excessive. He had suggested the payment of $85,000 in his summation.

White's action was opposed by Delaney's counsel, Thomas J. O'Neill, and Judge Edward A. Conger reserved decision and gave the attorneys 10 days to submit briefs.

Delaney had sought $250,000 damages.

O'Neill, describing the accident during the trial, said Delaney was coupling freight cars in the yards when another train crashed into them pinning Delaney under a car wheel for 25 to 30 minutes.

Detroit 'Salome' Is Up for Review By School Board

Detroit, April 16 (AP)—The case of Lincoln High School's "Salome," whose scantily veiled dance was the hit of a recent teen-age assembly revue, went before the school board today.

An estimated 150 of the 900 rural high school students struck Monday after a rumor spread that 16-year-old Beverly Cort would be expelled for her forbidden performance in the revue.

Walter Bradley, principal, said there is no thought of expelling the girl and that she probably will not be punished at all. He said he asked the students to return to classes and to send a delegation to discuss the matter with the school board.

Beverly, Bradley said, was to have worn slacks in her appearance in the assembly room. Instead, he said, she slipped out of them at the last moment and "Salome" danced in abbreviated shorts and ballet skirt with a top resembling a bathing suit.

A "vigorous protest" came from the show's sponsor, Mrs. Stella Koski, civics teacher at the school.

Ask Skit Elimination
Bradley said Mrs. Koski had asked elimination of the skit, entitled "Salome, Where She Danced," on grounds that it was more suited for adults than for school children, and that the student show people had agreed.

"Yet when the show came on, 'Salome' danced," Bradley said. "They slipped the skit back in on Mrs. Koski."

He added that Beverly's "combination" costume was not objectionable to him but agreed that it was definitely of adult caliber. The student cast had presented the same program in evening performances outside the school, Bradley said. Neither he nor Mrs. Koski objected to it under those conditions, he went on, but felt it was out of place on the school stage.

Bradley said he didn't feel the

Three Big Cities Get Television in Commercial Way

New York, April 16 (AP)—Three of the country's major cities—New York, Washington and Philadelphia—were linked today in the nation's first permanent commercial television network.

The Allen B. du Mont Laboratories, operators of the network, said stations in Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Cincinnati would be added and that it was expected that the network would be expanded eventually into a coast-to-coast hookup.

The network went into operation last night at the opening of the new studios here of television station WABD, operated by the du Mont Laboratories. The Mayflower Hotel was the sending-receiving station at the Washington end of the cable.

Sen. McMahon (D-Conn.) speaking from Washington disclosed that television would be used at the atom bomb tests at Bikini Atoll in the Pacific to record for remote observers what actually happens when the bombs explode. The television transmitters and pick-up apparatus will fly with planes in the bomb-dropping fleet, he said.

Red Cross Parts Ways

Washington, April 16 (AP)—The Red Cross and the two big labor organizations came to the parting of the ways today as far as their wartime fund-raising agreement is concerned. The arrangement expires April 30 and the Red Cross issued a formal statement saying it would not be renewed. Yesterday that it would disassociate itself from the joint enterprise unless given a chance to participate in Red Cross activities and services on a community level.

C.P.A. Halts Jobs Violating Building

Washington, April 16 (AP)—The civilian Production Administration said today it has halted more than 3,000 construction jobs begun in violation of the three-week old building limitation order.

Morris S. Verner, chief of C.P.A.'s compliance division, said he had notified builders in these cases that they are not to resume construction without specific authorization.

Verner reported that in "many other cases" contractors had "merely excavated" and thus were ruled ineligible to proceed. The limitation order which went into effect March 26 stipulates that any construction actually under way on that date could be completed without authorization.

Verner said construction halted by C.P.A. included a liquor store in Camden, N. J., a theatre in Dayton, Ohio; a mail order retail store in Cleveland; apartment houses and stores in Miami; an inter-building bridge in Pittsburgh; a night club in San Francisco; a hotel in Los Angeles; garage and storage buildings for a life insurance company in Hartford, Conn.; and a Washington office building intended for government use.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, APRIL 16, 1946

CONSOLIDATION

The prospect of merging the army and navy is described as cheering the former and saddening the latter. Naval men "received the news in chilly silence." For that they deserve no blame. Their branch of the service is so old and honorable, held everywhere in such high esteem, that anything seeming to carry with it a loss of individuality is hard to bear.

But as the old song says, "Times change and we change with them." It is a far cry from the muskets of our revolutionary ancestors to the strange, new weapons of present-day warfare, with which invisible armies can fight invisible foes, and warfare is conducted alike in the air, on the earth and underground, as well as on and under water. It seems likely that this modern warfare, while it lasts, will be one of perpetual change.

Why are operators of motorcycles permitted to break the speed limits and weave in and out of traffic on our city streets? Does not local ordinances governing the operation of motor vehicles apply to motorcycles as well as passenger cars and trucks? It is time these laws were enforced.

WIVES IN GERMANY

It will be a great reunion when about 1,500 American army wives and children join husbands and fathers in the occupation forces in Germany in a few weeks. Men who are stationed overseas for the long hitch will be glad to have their families and homes established there.

For the young women it will be a strange experience in a strange country—not easy in all respects, but very interesting. Settling down to regular housekeeping in Europe will give both soldiers and their wives a new perspective of life in America and the contrast with postwar Europe. Their views are likely to turn out to be somewhat different from the interpretations of troops operating only as military units.

One thing is sure. If their reactions are accurately and fairly reported, Americans as a whole will learn something from their experiences. So will the Germans.

Spring Clean-Up Week is not far off. Here is an opportunity to make our city cleaner and more sanitary.

CLEANING OUT GRIPES

Even the government has a good idea once in a while, and its latest production in this line seems to fill a long-felt need. The army has established a "gripe board" advertised as the first of its kind at Washington, to establish better relations between the army officers and the enlisted men. It is said to have just finished its first batch of reports.

The procedure of opening up sore spots might usefully be spread over a larger area than has been contemplated so far. One of the most profitable and soul-cleansing of all mundane institutions is to get rid of gripes.

"None but the brave deserve the fair," says the poet; but remember, girls, that it often takes a lot of courage for a man to stay at home and look after things.

LESS LIQUOR

Some people will be much annoyed by the new whiskey rules from Washington, putting bans on liquor production and decreeing that after April 15 distillers with more than seven and one-half days' grain on hand may not use the surplus to make beverage alcohol or distilled spirits. There are sharp reductions on distillery grain inventories in order to conserve grain supplies at home and abroad. But the reduction is for a worthy purpose, and in most cases will doubtless be accepted with good grace.

WOODEN SHOES

The lumber shortage is really getting tough. Lack of maple is cutting high heels down, and low heels have to be made of such substitutes as pine, birch and basswood—but the shoemakers of New England predict more new shoes this year than in the

100 YEARS OF SERVICE

The annual report of the Pennsylvania Railroad, recently issued, calls attention to the healthy maturity of our country. This road is now celebrating its hundredth anniversary. But as I read the letterpress, looked at the maps, charts and other ballyhoo, I could only think of one fact: Namely, no government ever built, ever added to, ever strengthened, ever improved this largest of American railroads. No government, federal, state or municipal, ever did anything for the line, but all took taxes out of its prosperity.

It was created by private persons as a private business venture. It has so remained except when, almost disastrously, the government took it over during World War I. It is a private property today. And no government-owned railroad in the world equals it in size, service, or usefulness. What is true of the Pennsylvania is, in large measure, true of every American railroad.

The strength of the United States during this war lay not in government regulation or control, nor in the piling of bureau upon bureau, nor in the expanding of the personnel of departments. It lay in the railroads, the steel plants, the automobile factories, the little factories owned by families, the big enterprises owned by myriads of stockholders. No government-owned enterprise anywhere in the world showed the ability or the capacity to produce in equal quantity or with equal efficiency. The war was a test, and private enterprise in the United States met the test.

The railroads of this country are controlled by government agency, the Interstate Commerce Commission, whose function it is to co-ordinate the policies and practices of a private enterprise in transportation with the public interest. The Interstate Commerce Commission was originally created to maintain the capitalist—that is, the competitive system—in railroad. It was to keep the railroads in actual competition in a field that, by its very nature, is a natural monopoly. As it is a government bureau, the I.C.C. could not fail to expand its purposes and activities over the years. As one looks at the story of one century of the Pennsy lines, the answer is that whatever the method, whatever the relations between railroads and I.C.C., the people of the United States got the best railroad system in the world.

Two forces have, however, opposed the railroads, one, the wholesome, beneficial competition from new and different means of transportation; two, the crackpot fascist element in the American bureaucracy that always seeks to destroy by government regulation and control what better and more able men built as private enterprise.

The first factor, private automobiles, bus lines, airplanes and whatever new means of transportation appear, is the normal concomitant of a free system. These afford all the stimulus and incentive of competition. The railroads are too hamstrung by government control to meet that competition efficiently and in the best tradition of American initiative. They have to be bound by too many rules, regulations, decrees, consents. And while admitting freely that the I.C.C. is the most competent and honestly administered bureau, the psychological effect of red-tape upon the human mind is to inhibit broad and risky innovation. Less control and more competition would improve most of our railroads.

The socialistic tendencies of a fascist-minded bureaucracy, however, find even the I.C.C. inadequate. What these officials seek really is government ownership whether overt or disguised. They would have government ownership of everything, although in the United States they dare not use the term, so they permit themselves the euphemism of "planning." Of them, Ludwig von Mises said:

"... the only alternative to the determination of market prices by the choices of all consumers is the determination of values by the judgment of some small group of men, no less liable to error and frustration than the majority, notwithstanding the fact that they are called 'authorities'."

When one looks at the Pennsylvania Railroad on its hundredth anniversary and let us say, the O.P.A. of the moment, one cannot have as much respect for the wonders of "authority" as for the competence of private enterprise.

INFLAMMATION OF EYELIDS

For many years the treatment of trachoma—inflammation of the lining of the eyelids—was a long slow painful process. By extending from the eyelid to the cornea or outer covering of the eyeball partial blindness sometimes occurred. With the coming of the sulfa drugs eye specialists were able to obtain cures with a few weeks.

Trachoma is called granular conjunctivitis. A number of small pinkish prominences or hard granulations develop on the conjunctiva which often, when they leave serious scars in the eyelids. There is pain, an excessive flow of tears, fear of light, and lids are swollen. When the eyelid is turned inside out, these white sago like prominences arranged in rows can be seen. Later grayish lines appear which is the beginning of the formation of scar tissue.

Until recently trachoma was not uncommon among wrestlers, but with more care on their part by using antiseptic eye washes, before and after bouts, most of them were able to avoid trachoma.

Just as penicillin has been found effective in various other infections, so also with trachoma.

In the Journal of Ophthalmology, Dr. D. J. Darius reports 12 cases of trachoma ranging from the mild to the severe type, treated at the United States Indian Service Hospitals with sodium salt of penicillin in a solution of 500 units to each cubic centimeter of water. Drops of this solution were instilled in the eye every three hours. Improvement was observed under this three hour schedule but more rapid results were obtained under a half hour schedule. There was less fear of light (photophobia) and less flow of tears (lacrimation) within twenty-four to forty-eight hours after treatment began. Improvement in vision was usually evident on the third day together with a "flattening" of the little prominences or granulations. The gray substance which forms scar tissue began to disappear on the seventh day. Rapid healing of the little ulcers on the cornea was the most spectacular improvement.

Dr. Darius states that penicillin is not superior or more rapid than treatment by the sulfa drugs but may help cases which resist treatment by sulfa drugs.

Builders Wax Angry
Builders in Belfast, Northern Ireland, are in an uproar over charges made before the Council that there was a "ring" of master builders who were holding up prices of home-building. They insist extra finish and accessories now required for houses which the city is building are responsible for the higher prices quoted.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The newly constructed Broadway Theatre was opened to the public on Thursday evening, June 9, 1927, when a special program had been arranged for the event. Harry Lazarus was the first man to serve as manager of the theatre.

The feature picture that opening night was "The Cradle Snatcher," and musical numbers were played by the theatre orchestra under the baton of Jacob Mollett, conductor. Tom Crosby, well known local organist, played a special selection on the big theatre organ, and there were several acts of vaudeville.

The prices charged for the opening night ranged from 75 cents in the loge; orchestra seats, 50 cents, and balcony was 40 cents. The new theatre had been built largely as the result of a dream by Mr. Lazarus, who for several years had envisioned a new theatre on Broadway. It was largely through his efforts that a financial campaign was staged and the funds raised by the issuance of bonds to erect the theatre.

Turning from theatricals to politics at a meeting of the Board of Supervisors on June 4, 1927, Attorney John W. Eckert, who had been serving as county attorney for 14 years, filed his resignation and the board appointed Robert G. Groves to the vacant post.

Mr. Eckert for years was widely known as one of the outstanding members of the Ulster County Bar, and for a number of years he served as secretary of the Ulster County Republican committee.

Charles A. Hungerford, who was a former resident of Kingston, and owned and operated the old Eagle Hotel on Main street for a number of years. When he decided to retire from the hotel business he sold his interests in the hotel to William J. Turk, who continued to operate the hotel for a number of years.

Today the old hotel is but a memory to the older residents of Kingston. For years it was one of the leading hotels in the Hudson river valley, but with the construction of the Tuxedo and the popularity began to wane.

John W. Southard died in his home on Janet street on April 30, 1927. Mr. Southard for more than 35 years had been employed by V. Buevin Sons, Inc., and for years drove the horse-drawn delivery motor trucks came into active use he drove one for the florist concern.

Howard Chipp died in his home on Fair street on May 3, 1927, in his 75th year. For years he was one of the leaders of the Ulster County Bar, and appeared in many of the most important law suits to be tried in supreme and county courts here.

Mr. Chipp was deeply interested in the early history of Kingston, and over a long period of years was in great demand as a speaker at meetings of various organizations. He was a very witty talker, and his recollections of early Kingston were always delivered in a clear, witty and incisive manner.

Harry Heaps died on May 29, 1927, in his home on Van Buren street. He was a widely known Hudson river man and for many years was employed as a pilot on the fleet of river steamers of the old Clinton Hudson Line.

New Law Might Extend Selective Service, but It Won't Be One Passed by Members of House

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 16—Out of the maneuvering of the political folks on Capitol Hill may come a law extending the Selective Service System, but it will not resemble the one passed by the House.

The members of the House got themselves recorded as in favor of the extension of the draft, but they were voting on a bill that was already weakened by amendments and did not represent what either the President or the War Department wanted in order to insure an adequate military force in the interim period between the present and the hoped-for days of normalcy.

The Senate does not have all of its members up for reelection this autumn—only one-third will face the voters at the polls—so there's a chance that the upper House will endeavor to give the War Department what it seeks.

The House not only eliminated the drafting of boys between 18 and 20 but held up all inductions until October 15. Now the War Department is trying to get its quota by means of the volunteer system and does not object to the tying of the two things together—namely, that the draft shall operate only when volunteers do not come forth in an adequate supply. But when the House changes the draft ages so that all below 20 years of age are exempt, it introduces a difficult element into the situation for the War Department. Presumably all the able-bodied above 20 have already been in service or have been deferred because of physical defects. Only a small number of able-bodied young men of 20 or more years of age were deferred for occupational reasons.

So the House has taken away the most important aid sought by the War Department and by the Navy too, for that matter. It is that the inducement to the 18-year-olds to volunteer shall not be removed. Many of these boys, feeling that they would sooner or later be drafted anyway, have volunteered. By flatly banning any induction of boys below 20, the military services lost their leverage on this age group. Very few of 20 and above will be volunteering and only those who have been in essential jobs will be subject to the draft when October 15 comes if the volunteer system, between now and autumn, has failed to provide the necessary quota.

General Eisenhower, who has tried very hard to persuade Congress to give him a minimum number of soldiers to meet the Army's goal of 1,070,000 by July 1, 1947, is popular on Capitol Hill and he is known to speak frankly about the Army's needs. There is no padding in his figures or estimates. But when election time comes they cannot follow even Eisenhower.

Now this is not altogether fair—it appears to be on the surface at all—a mere concession to political influences. It is really a fear that the mothers of the boys will not understand the draft problem and will punish at the polls the members who vote to induct the 18-year-olds. His matter of the teenage boys has been a delicate point with Congress ever since the draft act was passed. Every test involving the 18-year-olds has been a serious one for the members of Congress.

There is something lacking in our democratic system. It is that for 18-year-old inductions has never been so comprehensively explained as to enable a member of Congress to vote for such a step without fear of losing support at home.

In order to keep the public from punishing members of the House, device frequently used in legislation will doubtless be brought forward. The Senate will pass a bill that differs from the House measure. The bill will then go to a conference committee of both Houses. There the legislation really will be written. Out of this conference will come a promise as between the ages 18 and 20 or else will include the 18 to 20-year age group but at a date beyond October 15.

Anyway, when the measure becomes law, it will have been voted on by voice vote. Even if there is a record vote, it will be difficult for members to vote against a "conference report" for then it is all or nothing. Either the measure is accepted as the conference committee changed it or there is no legislation. The members could not afford to take the responsibility of voting so that there would be no extension, because the President, fathers and others with long service, for one thing, is clear—the Army and Navy cannot be disbanded even if there is a congressional election this year. In the end a bill that satisfies the needs of the military services must be passed.

Madrid Is Afraid Russians Plan To Invade Spain

France-Controlled Radio
Says Reds, France
Have Pact; Paris
Issues Denial

London, April 16 (AP)—The Madrid radio expressed fear that Russia was planning to invade Spain as the Franco government awaited replies today from five "friendly" nations invited to send technicians to investigate charges that Spain is a threat to world peace.

These charges, together with an assertion that Spain was harboring German scientists, were made by Oscar Lange, the Polish delegate to the United Nations Security Council. The Council, meeting in New York today, is scheduled to take up the Spanish question as soon as it disposes of the Russian-Japanese dispute.

The Spanish Foreign ministry announced last night it had extended the formal invitations to five Council members which maintain "friendly relations" with the Franco government.

The countries are the United States, Britain, Egypt, the Netherlands and Brazil.

The invitations, extended informally last week by the Spanish cabinet, were delivered personally to the British ambassador, the Netherlands minister and the charges d'affaires of the other three countries.

Secret Agreement Charged
The Madrid radio, which is government controlled, said there was a secret agreement between France and Russia which might lead to a Soviet march through France and into Spain. The existence of any such agreement was promptly denied in Paris by a source close to the French office.

The broadcast said that "all indications" were that the Spanish republican government in exile, which has headquarters in Paris, was preparing military intervention by means of frontier incidents in the Pyrenees.

"Once such an incident has taken place," the Madrid radio continued, "Russian troops could come to the assistance of their allies by marching through France from the German and Austrian zones of occupation."

The source close to the French foreign office said the broadcast was just what you would expect to come from Franco's radio.

The Spanish foreign office, meanwhile, denied Paris reports that an atomic bomb laboratory was being operated at Portugete, near Bilbao, by German scientists. It termed the reports "totally and absolutely false."

The London Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, had printed a Paris dispatch saying that the laboratory was in a factory atop an almost inaccessible hill.

Missing Car Found In Service Station

An error on the part of a gas station employee in taking the wrong automobile from a parking ground to be serviced kept the police department busy Monday afternoon searching for the car, which had been reported stolen by the owner.

The first intimation that the automobile, a 1941 Chevrolet, owned by Miss Marion A. Marquart of 71 Brewster street, was missing from the parking grounds on Grand street just off Broadway, was a telephone call to police headquarters at 5 o'clock that afternoon, from the owner.

Miss Marquart reported that she had left the auto in the parking grounds with the doors and windows of the car locked, and the keys in her possession.

A general alarm was sent out by the police, and an hour later Officer George P. Bowers and Lemuel Howard, in one of the radio cars, discovered the missing car at the Gulf Gas Station at Greenkill avenue and the Boulevard, where it was being serviced by Edward Parmelee.

Mr. Parmelee explained to the police that he had been asked to go to the parking grounds after the automobile, and that when he reached the grounds he found two Chevrolets, instead of one.

He used the keys that had been given him and had no trouble unlocking the door of the Chevrolet and driving it back to the gas station where he immediately went to work on the car.

So sure was Mr. Parmelee that he had taken the right car to be serviced, that he found it difficult to understand how he had made an error.

Miss Marquart received her auto back fully serviced.

out-unexplained, but presumably caused by poor communications—from Manchuria today.

However, Associated Press correspondent Spencer Davis radioed from Mukden that the situation in embattled Changchun, the Manchurian capital, was so tense that a neutral plane probably would be sent there to remove five American correspondents—one a woman.

Latest news from Changchun said Communists, attacking from three directions, had captured Changchun's three airfields. The official Chinese Central News Agency, in a Changchun dispatch, reported belatedly that Communist troops had entered the capital city yesterday after one night of continuous attacks. There were no details. The Communists were reported to have 30,000 to 40,000 troops around Changchun, the government only 4,000.

Attacking 10 Hours
Associated Press Correspondent Tom Masterson, one of the five American correspondents in the Manchurian capital, yesterday said the Communist had been attacking 10 hours when his dispatch was filed. The assault began two hours before the scheduled departure from Changchun of the last Russian occupation troops.

Meantime, the formal entry of the government's new First Army into Sipingka, important railroad junction 90 miles southeast of Changchun, was announced in Mukden by the Northeast China Command. Communists have held up the First Army's advance south of Sipingka for more than 10 days as the government troops, American-trained and equipped, tried to reach Changchun before the Soviet withdrawal.

The army has made its way afoot and by mule cart from Mukden to Sipingka, a city of 100,000.

will prove so." The second test, with the bomb exploded in the shallow waters of Bikini lagoon or just at the surface, "may readily turn out to be more lethal in its combined effects upon ship and crew—especially since this attack can be made either at sea or in port, and the bomb can be quickly brought to the desired exploding position, that is on the surface or slightly below it."

4. Prompt information is necessary. Scientists say any reasonably industrialized nation can produce the A-Bomb in a few years, but it is not expected a positive guarantee against the use of the weapon can be accomplished except through a step-by-step process over an indefinite period. Pending such guarantee, it is essential that our designers, strategists and others learn as much as possible now about the use of the weapon. Otherwise, they will be groping their way along a dark road which may lead to another and worse Pearl Harbor.

mately one-third—and immediately suggested a coalition with other conservative elements to form a new government. Liberal Party Leaders Ichiro Hatoyama demanded Shidehara's resignation and told newsmen he expected to become premier. However, he is moving cautiously.

The premier said he was "giving deep consideration" to making connections with existing political parties to form a majority party of which he possibly would be the president. This would give his government the necessary support in the Diet.

Shidehara recalled that he never had been connected with any party. He commented "democratic practice now would require me or my government to establish relations with the parties. There must be a base in one of these parties from which to operate a majority party."

Shidehara met the press after an important cabinet meeting. There was no official announcement concerning his decisions.

Occupation authorities remained aloof from the inevitable post-election political activity, although results of the balloting are expected to dominate discussions at tomorrow's first business meeting of the four-power council.

Burial Expense Bill For Vets Is Signed

No Prediction Made

Healy Company officials declined to predict when work would start on the dam. No indication was given as to where the labor would come from, although most of the men are likely to be affiliated with the Building Trades Council.

C.I.O. Reports Spiked

Yesterday's negotiations completely spiked earlier reports that the C.I.O. would make a bid for jurisdictional rights at Lackawack. The report of a familiar A.F.L. figure to the C.I.O. camp in connection with the project failed to materialize.

As was reported earlier in The Freeman, the Healy Company has been dealing with A.F.L. unions and crafts for nearly a quarter of a century and it is unlikely that any change is contemplated.

Kingston Is Visited By March Winds

High winds swept through the city's streets early last evening during the rainstorm, while the official city thermometer was recording temperatures in the 60's.

The highest point reached yesterday afternoon was 69 degrees, while during the morning a low of 49 degrees was recorded.

March winds again whirled through the city early today, and the lowest temperature recorded during the night was 44 degrees.

No damage was reported in the city due to the high winds.

Diamond Is Hurt

William H. Diamond, of 74 West Union street, employed as a caulker on the Lenahan bargeyard on West Strand, was injured in a fall from the deck of a barge while at work on the yard Monday afternoon it was said at the yard today. He was removed to the Benedictine Hospital in the Corner ambulance. His condition today was reported as good at the hospital, where he is under the care of Dr. John F. Larkin.

Coal Prices Discussed

Washington, April 16 (AP)—Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles said today any increase in coal prices as the result of a strike settlement would be fixed strictly on the basis of the administration's wage stabilization policies. There will be "no room about methods," he told Senate Commerce (R-Ind.) during testimony before the Senate Banking Committee on legislation to continue O.P.A. a year beyond June 30.

New Development For Houses Made In Former Woods

Kingston's newest housing development has been opened under the name of the Hilltop Development, it was announced today by Alva S. Staples and W. C. Kingman, owners of the development, the former Water's Woods and farm, just off East Chester street.

There are more than a hundred building lots available in the new development, which covers between 50 and 60 acres of land. Oscar J. Lawatch of the State of New York Bank, has purchased a homestead with an extensive mountain and river view, at the corner of Woodland avenue and Hemlock avenue, on which he plans to build an attractive brick home this season.

Other new homes are contemplated, as new streets are laid out.

The development is bounded by East Chester street, Hemlock avenue, Lawrence street and Hooker street. For years the woods were used by various organizations of the city for picnic purposes.

The woods and farm were purchased some time ago by Mr. Staples and Mr. Kingman, and they stated today that they had decided to open it as a housing development to aid in relieving the acute home shortage in the city.

The large trees in the woods are being cut down and removed by Arthur Van Etten, of Saugerties, and the land is being graded, and placed in shape for the erection of new homes.

Police School Opens At Court House Tonight

Inasmuch as a large attendance is expected at the opening session tonight of the Basic-In-Service School for law enforcement officers of Ulster and Greene counties, the opening session at least will be held in the court room at the county court-house. A three-hour session is scheduled, starting at 7:30.

Instructors will be Special F.B.I. Agents J. J. Frank and D. G. Jenkins. Mr. Frank will discuss techniques and mechanics of arrest (with film). Mr. Jenkins will talk on defensive tactics.

The school, sponsored by the State Sheriff's Association and the State Chiefs of Police Association, is being conducted with the cooperation of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Sheriff Smith has been invited to give a talk on law enforcement agencies to take advantage of the facilities offered for securing a thorough training in police work.

The school will extend through eight weeks, sessions being held on Tuesday nights of each week. Diplomas will be issued to registrants who attend all of the sessions. Limited provision is made for necessary absences.

Holders of the diplomas will be qualified to attend a secondary In-Service Training School scheduled to be held in the fall of this year.

Women Abandon Their Prison Demonstration

Portage La Prairie, Man., April 16 (AP)—Forty-five female prisoners in the Manitoba Provincial Jail for Women abandoned a defiant 30-hour demonstration against guards and police early today as falling temperatures chilled their windowless citadel.

The destructive demonstration was precipitated by the inmates' demands for better food.

Baffled police, unable to break through furniture barricades and unsuccessful in an attempt to halt the demonstrations with tear gas, contented themselves with guarding the prison to prevent any escapes.

During the night the women wandered from window to window, shouting "we want the attorney general," and occasionally singing.

Connected with waiting, such as mopping floors and washing dishes, he charged.

Under state laws, waitresses are limited to 45 hours a week. Rifkin noted, but he charged employers with subterfuge in getting around the letter of the law. The use of "split shifts" and other measures sometimes compel a waitress to be "on call" for 12 hours in succession.

Walters Some Better Off

The lot of the waiters is slightly more favorable, but the average pay is between $13 and $14 per week, the organizer said. The working hours are necessarily longer, averaging between 11 and 12 a day.

The current wage scale for Kingston bartenders ranges from $25 a week for inexperienced men to $40 for first class help, Rifkin said. This is about $10 below prevailing rates for top help in Newburgh. In only two places in the city was he able to find bartender paid more than $40 a week, Rifkin asserted. The bartenders generally work a straight 10-hour shift.

Chambermaid Plight 'Pitiful'

The plight of the average chambermaid in Kingston is "pitiful," Mr. Rifkin said. The average wage is from $12 to $14 a week and a majority of these workers depend on tips that never come. Several of these women are physically handicapped extremely aged or unable to do any other type of work, he said, are the victims of unfair treatment.

The tipping psychology in Kingston is sub-standard. Rifkin continued, and there are waitresses placed where a waiter of waitresses can expect tips with any regularity. Friday and Saturday are the best tipping days, with Wednesday slightly over the average level.

No attempt will be made to establish a wage scale for the waiters, but Rifkin said he would establish types of workers until all establishments and employees have been classified on the basis of experience, Rifkin said. The meeting Wednesday has been called to organize a local, and point out the conditions now existing in the city.

Old Tavern Sold To Furniture Man For Local Store

The DeWall Tavern property on North Front street has been sold by Harry Gold of 122 Pearl street to William R. and Mathilda E. McClements of Route 3, Kingston, and Mr. McClements intends to alter and improve the building for use in his used furniture business. Mr. McClements has been conducting a business at 73 Crown street under the name of the Kingston Used Furniture Company. This location on Crown street will be taken over by the Hal-Mar clothing company which now occupies the building at the corner of Crown and North Front street.

Built in 1660 the DeWall tavern was one of the original stone houses of the city and for more than a century was used as a tavern where during Revolutionary days it became one of the social centers of the city. The DeWall house, which stood within the confines of the old stockade which was erected about Kingston in early colonial days to protect the villagers from Indian attacks, is built of native stone, two stories in height and the walls today are sound and firm and its great floor timbers today are in excellent shape.

When the house ceased to be conducted as a tavern it was turned into apartments and for many years continued to be occupied by various families. Of late it has not been occupied.

The DeWall tavern was known throughout this area in early days for its large ball room with its "teetering" or spring floor.

Some time ago it was reported that the building was to be sold and demolished to make room for a modern building but Harry Gold, owner, at that time declined to dispose of it and have it torn down. Recently he stated that he desired to sell it to someone who would preserve the building and improve it. This Mr. McClements intends to do. Alterations will be made to the building and a display window installed but the interior and the main walls will remain as a monument to its builders.

New Attack Reported on Food

tinued shortages" of dairy products.

The Senate Agriculture Committee was plainly exercised about the meat situation which packer James D. Cooney testified was "a national scandal which makes prohibition look like petty crime."

With the F.B.I. ordered into action against one group of black marketers, there were hopes of curbing some illegal transactions in meat, but opinions differed sharply whether the reimposition of slaughtering controls would achieve its aim of improving the general meat situation.

Price Administrator Paul A. Taylor said the effect of the controls would be to "provide for better distribution of meat supplies at ceiling prices to retail stores."

'Won't Do Any Good'

The opposite view was taken by Cooney, vice president of Wilson & Co., one of the Big Four packers. He told the Senate committee the new order "won't do any good."

"It calls for policing at the stockyards," he asserted, "but the black marketers simply will go out and buy on the farms."

The possibility of difficulties ahead for the country's broad supply was first raised yesterday by bakery industry spokesmen in connection with an earlier announcement by Secretary Anderson that a 25 per cent cut in their flour supplies will be ordered, if necessary to meet famine relief quotas.

John T. McCarthy, of Toledo, Ohio, president of the American Bakers Association, predicted such an order would mean "black market and black market prices for bakery products." His view was echoed by other representatives of the industry.

Chairman Murray (D-Mont.) promised he would try to persuade officials to "find some other way" of meeting relief needs, but Anderson gave no immediate indication of abandoning the 25 per cent reduction plan if the relief picture does not improve.

Offices Will Be Closed

All of the offices in the city hall will be closed on Friday, it was said at the mayor's office today.

MABUCHI 'Explains' Bayonet Practice

Yokohama, April 16 (AP)—Capt. Masaaki Mabuchi testified today he had permitted the bayonetting of a decapitated American flier because his troops soon were to go into battle and he thought they "must have this actual experience."

Defending himself at a war crimes trial before a military tribunal, Mabuchi explained that his "raid company," stationed near Tokyo, previously had trained only on straw targets.

"There is a great deal of difference between straw and an actual human body," he said.

Mabuchi is charged specifically with the decapitation of Lt. Darwin T. Emory of Denver, a B-29 bombardier, and permitting his body to be bayoneted.

Shriners Arrange For Entertainment At Annual Ball

An excellent floor show is being arranged for the annual Shriners' Ball for the benefit of the Industrial Home to be held Easter Monday night, April 22, in the municipal auditorium, and Arthur A. Davis, chairman of the entertainment committee, reported today that all of the acts will be high class.

Jerry Tomas, baritone star of the stage and radio, will be one of the soloists of the evening. He is said to have an unlimited repertoire of songs, and is slated for top honors in the vocal world.

His offerings constitute a variety of music, comedy, effervescent quips and as a special feature he presents ventriloquism, assisted by some one in the audience.

Mr. Davis said that Mr. Tomas has been recommended to the committee as a high grade entertainer, and that he will prove one of the big hits of the floor show.

Mr. Tomas has appeared on a number of programs over the National Broadcasting Co. system.

As the ball is one of the outstanding events in the social world in Kingston, a record breaking attendance is expected. The ticket committee report an unusually large request for tickets.

The first London bridge was built in 994.

BOUCK TO SPEND WEEK ENDS IN JAIL

Chronic Offender in Again for Public Intoxication

Vincent "Sailor" Bouck of 486 Wilbur avenue, has appeared so many times before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court on charges of public intoxication, that this morning the judge invoked the little used week-end law, and sentenced Bouck to serve the ensuing 10 week-ends in the county jail.

Bouck was arrested last night on a charge of public intoxication by the police, who found him on Monday street.

Judge Cahill informed Bouck that he had appeared before him a number of times, and had been given lenient treatment as he is the father of a large family.

As Bouck works from Monday through Friday, the judge informed him that in order that he could continue working and support his family, that the sentence of 30 days he was imposing could be served week-ends.

The judge told Bouck that he must report to the county jail each Friday night at 6 o'clock and remain in jail over the week-end. Judge Cahill warned Bouck that if he failed to report to the jail, that he would be picked up by the police and sentenced to serve 30 consecutive days instead of the week-end periods.

Hutton Park be eliminated from the program this year. The cost of this work at Hutton Park, however, is small and the benefits great. With the greatly increased state aid to be derived by the City under the Moore plan for increased revenues to municipalities, I feel that the city of Kingston is not in such a financial plight that it cannot afford to carry on this work at Hutton Park.

I therefore respectfully request that you use your good offices to restore Hutton Park to the park program for 1946.

Very truly yours,
EDWIN H. SAMMONS,
Alderman of the Third Ward

Jasper, Mo., April 16 (AP)—Good fishing—like gold—is where you find it, say Roy R. Boucher and Clarence E. Brown of Jasper. Sadly they returned from a fishing trip to Grand Lake, Okla., where a full day of fishing netted them one tiny fish each.

A neighbor, Mrs. Eli W. Scott, thereupon casually displayed two large and luscious catfish. She caught them in a few idle moments in a small creek on Boucher's property—not 100 feet from his house.

Domestic Arts Law Provides Added Funds From State

Annual Help Limit

One Organization
in State

Albany, N. Y., April 16 (AP)—An increase from $400,000 to $450,000 in annual state aid for the local promotion of agriculture and domestic arts was approved today by Governor Dewey.

The funds are distributed to county and local agricultural societies and to the American Institute of the city of New York. The annual limit of aid to any one organization will be increased from $8,000 to $10,000, under terms of a bill signed by the governor.

Dewey also signed a bill making permanent a temporary wartime measure which exempts all newspapermen from jury duty.

He vetoed a bill which would have released from individual liability under the workmen's compensation law all employers insured with stock or mutual insurance carriers. Employers insured with the state compensation fund already are free from individual liability.

Also vetoed were bills which would have increased the limit of branches which may be maintained by savings and loan associations in cities of 250,000 or more, and guaranteed restoration of legal competency for all persons discharged from mental hospitals as "recovered."

Today's action by the governor brought the total number of new laws this year to 763.

There are 397 measures on which the governor still must act by April 25—end of the "30-day bill period" which began on the last day of the legislative session. All bills remaining unsigned then are automatically killed.

Brewer's Mansion Destroyed by Fire

Roslyn, N. Y., April 16 (AP)—The palatial, 32-room mansion of brewery magnate Samuel Rubel was destroyed last night in a five-alarm fire which police said caused an estimated $750,000 damage.

Earlier police had reported a $1,750,000 damage figure, which included jewelry kept in a house safe.

Nassau County Fire Marshal George Clough said the 7½ hour blaze was set off by a short circuit caused when a painter ran a scraper over wires in a wall light switch.

No one was injured in the fire which spread to a nearby wooded area and threatened briefly to extend to this Long Island town. The fire's spread, however, was checked by a backfire set by volunteers.

Rubel is president of the Rubel Corporation and of the Edling Brewing Company in New York.

G.I.'s Who Would Dance Will Get Money to Learn

Arthur Murray Reports He Has Been Given Power to Produce Dance Masters

Washington, April 16 (AP)—It may be shocking news to hard-boiled drill sergeants, but the G.I. Bill of Rights definitely is ready to finance the ex-doughfoot who aspires to becoming a dancing master.

The tidings came from Arthur Murray, who specializes in teaching people how to trip the light fantastic in its many variations, including jitterbug style.

However, Murray does not anticipate any stampede of ex-G.I.'s to learn jitterbugging at "Uncle Sugar's" expense. "They know how to do that already," he said while visiting one of his studios here.

Murray told a reporter that his New York and Washington studios have been certified to teach veterans dancing. They can accept pupils under the G.I. bill and the government foots the bill. He said about half of his New York pupils want to teach dancing.

Most of the others, he added, came at the prodding of psychiatrists.

"They need social contacts," Murray said. "Dancing gives them confidence and helps them to get readjusted."

A Veterans' Administration official said if a fellow wants to learn how to be a dancer, that's his business.

On the Other Hand

This official added that if the veteran never intended to use dancing as a business, but just thought dancing might improve his Saturday night technique, there's nothing V.A. can do about it.

"But that's true of any veteran," he added. "We can help him get an education, but we can't force him to use it."

The V.A. man said the barracks are full of men with unusual ambitions. Such as the G.I. in Greenland who wondered about silver-smithing. And the guy in Switzerland who fell in love with a Swiss watch. He wrote in to apply for a course in watch-making.

But the V.A. is proudest of persons like William O'Hara. He was a navigator of a Flying Fortress that cold night of November 8, 1942, when it crashed in Iceland.

Four frigid months it took to rescue that crew. And William O'Hara was carried out, never to walk on his own legs again.

They were amputated after he got back in the U. S. But lack of legs didn't stop O'Hara. He enrolled in Georgetown University Law School here, and became an honor student.

Why don't you drop around April 25? 'Tis a great occasion for a gallant guy.

That's when William O'Hara will be admitted to the bar and become a full fledged lawyer.

Lomontville Truck Is Exhibited

The Lomontville fire company's fine new fire truck is on exhibition in the show rooms of the Colonial City Chevrolet at 795 Broadway.

The truck is Army surplus and was purchased by the Lomontville firemen for $900, which is about one-quarter its original cost.

The Chevrolet people have replaced the original Army paint with a striking coat of fire department red and added the appropriate lettering.

The truck is powered with a Chevrolet engine and with complete equipment weighs six tons.

Equipment includes a 300-gallon pump and a 350-gallon booster tank. It has a four-wheel drive.

Meanwhile, the public-spirited people of Lomontville have raised funds for a new fire house, which is in course of construction, side walls being up. The building is to be of brick, 24 x 36 feet over all.

It will be painted red, and with a red roof, and the new red truck installed ultimately the Lomontville fire fighters feel that they will be sitting on top of the world, firemanically speaking.

Wage Increase Is Asked for U. S. Railway Workers

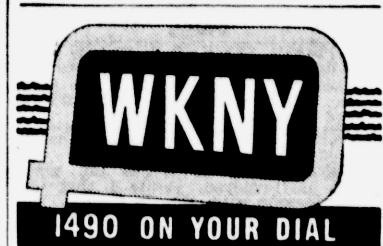

Chicago, April 16 (AP)—An additional wage increase of 14 cents an hour for more than one million railroad workers employed on 130 of the nation's carriers was asked yesterday in notices filed by 15 non-operating brotherhoods.

The 1,050,000 workers, together with about 200,000 members of three operating brotherhoods, were granted wage hikes of 16 cents an hour on April 3 by government arbitration boards. The new raise the 15 unions asked represents the difference between the original demand of 30 cents and the 16 cents awarded by the board which union spokesmen had termed "wholly inadequate."

The new proceedings do not involve the five operating brotherhoods.

Holt Says Camp Prisoners Beaten in Vicious Manner

He Had Refused Earlier, Because He Feared Retaliation; Given Assurance

Lichfield, Eng., April 16 (AP)—A G.I. prisoner who refused to testify last week in the Lichfield detention camp trial because he said he was "afraid" of retaliation, returned to the witness stand today and asserted that Americans in the camp were viciously beaten.

He was Otto C. Holt, of 415 North Douglas street, Gilman, Ill., a witness in the court martial of Staff Sgt. James M. Jones of Muskogee, Okla., who is charged with assaulting Lichfield prisoners.

In reply to a defense question, Holt said he had been assured by Brig. Gen. Edward C. Betts, theatre judge advocate, that he would not be "mistreated" for giving evidence.

Holt and four other prisoners previously had refused to testify unless they had the assurance of Secretary of War Patterson or some other high Washington official that they would not be mistreated for what they might say.

Holt said when he was first called to the stand last week that "I don't believe it would be safe for me to testify—officers in this camp don't approve of our testifying."

He said this morning that he had seen Jones force another prisoner against a courtyard wall at Lichfield and beat him in the stomach with his fists for 20 minutes.

Holt also testified that a group of guards—among them Jones—had beaten another prisoner in the courtyard until he foamed and bled at the mouth. He said this prisoner later was taken to the hospital.

No explanation was given concerning the unexpected recess which was called last Friday at the request of an unidentified "high authority."

"BOUGHTEN IS QUIANT"

The following letter brings to me a definite nostalgia: Is it proper to say "boughten bread" instead of "baker's bread"? You will settle an argument by answering this even though it may not be etiquette in the strictest sense.

The word "boughten" is, I know, local United States, but it was the one word that my own mother in her otherwise not-at-all local vocabulary always used. Therefore, I can't be impersonal in my judgment of it. It is certainly not a vulgarity, but I agree it is quaint.

Introducing an English Bride

Dear Mrs. Post: Who should give a party to introduce an English bride to friends and relatives? The young husband has been home and out of the Army for some time; but his wife could not join him before this. He has their house all ready and is practicing medicine. His parents live in the same town and have offered to give the party. He thinks maybe he is the logical one to give it.

Answer: Either would be correct. It is merely a question as to which house would lend itself best.

Announcing Widow's Marriage

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it correct for the parents to announce the marriage of a widow-bride when she is not yet thirty?

Answer: Certainly.

Helping a Lady Across Street
Dear Mrs. Post: Is it correct manners for a man, whether young or old, to take hold of the arm of a lady walking with him when they come to street crossings?

Answer: A gentleman never should take hold of a lady's arm unless to save her from danger. However, he may offer his arm to her whenever he is going in bad, particularly in the evening. She may take it or not as she pleases.

How early are wedding invitations mailed? The answer is found in Mrs. Post's leaflet, "Wedding Invitations and Announcements," obtainable for a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to her in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

1,549 Men Killed In Mine in 1942 Under Jap Rule

Chinese and Koreans Died in Manchuria; Blast Was Set Off by Short Circuit

Tokyo, April 16 (AP)—The world's worst mining disaster—an underground explosion which snuffed out 1,549 Chinese and Korean lives in the Honkeiko colliery in Manchuria—was reported for the first time today by Allied headquarters—almost four years after it happened.

The accident occurred April 26, 1942, under Japanese occupation. It was kept secret by the military from even the Japanese government for a month.

The explosion was set off by a short circuit which ignited methane gas. Most of the deaths were caused by carbon monoxide poisoning because a mine official refused to turn on ventilating fans for fear of spreading the fire, Cammack said.

Cereal Story

Bern, Switzerland (AP)—The A.L. lies have allocated 175,000 tons of cereals to Switzerland for 1946, although the Swiss asked for 500,000 tons, according to the paper, Swiss Trade News, which said Switzerland needed 400,000 tons to maintain its daily bread ration of 250 grams.

Commission for a 25 per cent raise in freight rates, with certain exceptions, said the 16 cent pay hike would add $619,000,000 to the 1946 wage costs.

Madrid Is Afraid Russians Plan To Invade Spain

France-Controlled Radio Says Reds, France Have Pact; Paris Issues Denial

London, April 16 (AP)—The Madrid radio expressed fear that Russia was planning to invade Spain as the Franco government awaited replies today from five "friendly" nations invited to send technicians to investigate charges that Spain is a threat to world peace.

These charges, together with an assertion that Spain was harboring German scientists, were made by Oscar Lange, the Polish delegate to the United Nations Security Council. The Council, meeting in New York today, is scheduled to take up the Spanish question as soon as it disposes of the Russian-Iranian dispute.

The Spanish Foreign ministry announced last night it had extended the former invitations to five Council members which maintain "friendly relations" with the Franco government.

The countries are the United States, Britain, Egypt, The Netherlands and Brazil.

The invitations, extended informally last week by the Spanish government, were delivered personally to the British ambassador, the Netherlands minister and the charges d'affaires of the other three countries.

Secret Agreement Charged

The Madrid radio, which is government controlled, said there was a secret agreement between France and Russia which might lead to a Soviet march through France and into Spain. The existence of any such agreement was promptly denied in Paris by a source close to the French office.

The broadcast said that "all indications" were that the Spanish republican government in exile, which has headquarters in Paris, was "preparing military intervention by means of frontier incidents" in the Pyrenees.

"Once such an incident has taken place," the Madrid radio continued, "Russian troops could come to the assistance of their allies by marching through France from the German and Austrian zones of occupation."

The source close to the French foreign office said the "broadcast" was "just what you would expect to come" from Franco's radio.

The Spanish foreign office, meanwhile, denied Paris reports that an atomic bomb laboratory was being operated at Portogalete, near Bilbao, by German scientists. It termed the reports "totally and absolutely false."

The London Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, had printed a Paris dispatch saying that the laboratory was in a factory atop an almost inaccessible hill.

Missing Car Found In Service Station

An error on the part of a gas station employee in taking the wrong automobile from a parking ground to be serviced kept the police department busy Monday afternoon searching for the car, which had been reported stolen by the owner.

The first intimation that the automobile, a 1941 Chevrolet, owned by Miss Marion A. Marquardt of 71 Brewster street, was missing from the parking grounds on Grand street, just off Broadway, was a telephone call to police headquarters at 5 o'clock that afternoon, from the owner.

Miss Marquardt reported that she had left the auto in the parking grounds with the doors and windows of the car locked, and the keys in her possession.

A general alarm was sent out by the police, and an hour later Officer George P. Bowers and Lemuel Howard, in one of the police cars, discovered the missing car at the Gulf Gas Station at Greenkill avenue and the Boulevard, where it was being serviced by Edward Parmelee.

Mr. Parmelee explained to the police that he had been asked to go to the parking grounds after the automobile, and that when he reached the grounds he found two Chevrolets, instead of one.

He used the keys that had been given him and had no trouble unlocking the door of the Chevrolet and driving it back to the gas station where he immediately went to work on the car.

So sure was Mr. Parmelee that he had taken the right car to be serviced, that he found it difficult to understand how he had made an error.

Miss Marquardt received her auto back fully serviced.

out-unexplained, but presumably caused by poor communications—from Manchuria today.

However, Associated Press Correspondent Spencer Davis radioed from Mukden that the situation in embattled Changchun, the Manchurian capital, was so tense that a neutral plane probably would be sent there to remove five American correspondents—one a woman.

Latest news from Changchun said Communists, attacking from three directions, had captured Changchun's three airfields.

The official Chinese Central News Agency, in a Changchun dispatch, reported belatedly that Communist troops had entered the capital city yesterday after one night of continuous attacks. There were no details. The Communists were reported to have 30,000 to 40,000 troops around Changchun, the government only 4,000.

Attacking 10 Hours

Associated Press Correspondent Tom Masterson, one of the five American correspondents in the Manchurian capital, yesterday said the Communists had been attacking Mukden when his dispatch was filed. The assault began two hours before the scheduled departure from Changchun of the last Russian occupation troops.

Meantime, the formal entry of the government's new First Army into Szepingkai, important railroad junction 90 miles southeast of Changchun, was announced in Mukden by the Northeast China Command. Communists had held up the First Army's advance south of Szepingkai more than 10 days as the government troops, American-trained and equipped, tried to reach Changchun before the Soviet withdrawal.

The army has made its way afoot and by mule cart from Mukden to Szepingkai, a city of 100,000.

will prove so." The second test with the bomb exploded in the shallow waters of Bikini lagoon or just at the surface, "may readily turn out to be more lethal in its combined effects upon ship and crew—especially since this attack can be made either at sea or in port, and the bomb can be quickly brought to the desired exploding position, that is on the surface or slightly below it."

A prompt information is necessary. Scientists say any reasonably industrialized nation can produce the A-Bomb in a few years, but it is not expected a positive guarantee against the use of the weapon can be accomplished except through a step-by-step process over an indefinite period. Pending such guarantee, it is essential that our designers, strategists and others learn as much as possible now about the use of the weapon. Otherwise, they will be "groping their way along a dark road which may lead to another and worse Pearl Harbor."

After 500 Members

In welcoming Sgt. Phillips, Commandant Mayone said, "We consider it an honor to have you with us, and hope that all of the other 500 ex-marines in the Ulster county area soon will sign up too." Many have joined to date and membership soon will pass the 200 mark, he told a reporter.

Miss Phillips served 26 months. She said her assignment as navigation instructor was very interesting work.

New Team Added To Baseball Loop Replacing Jewels

Failure to Post Entry Fees Causes Change; Grandstand Club Accepted by League

The Grandstand Tavern team of Newburgh was named to replace the Newburgh Shapiro Jewels in the Mid-Hudson Valley Baseball League by Elliott B. Collison, Poughkeepsie, secretary. The Jewels were dropped from the newly organized league when that team failed to post entrance and forfeit fees.

Collison, speaking on behalf of the league, said he regretted the action that the Jewels had to be forced out of the circuit, but added that league officials had no other alternative since no fees had been forwarded by the Jewels.

The Grandstand club officially became a member of the Mid-Hudson Valley League when Managers Oscar Reale and Tony Donato posted fees with officials of the loop yesterday.

The league will open its season Sunday, May 19, with a four game slate.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

Recovers Ring

Troy, N. Y., April 16 (AP)—Willard B. Snyder, enjoying an April sunbath in his backyard, noted a glint of light in the dirt. Investigating, he found a ruby ring his wife had lost 21 years before and which they had believed stolen.

The Hard Way

Westbrook, Me., April 16 (AP)—A thief who stole $20 from Lawrence Seavey's garage jimmied all but one of 13 windows before he got in. The one he by-passed wasn't locked.

His Own Backyard

Jasper, Mo., April 16 (AP)—Good fishing—like gold—is where you find it, say Roy R. Boucher and Clarence E. Brown of Jasper. Sady they returned from a fishing trip to Grand Lake, Okla., where a full day of fishing netted them one tiny fish each. A neighbor, Mrs. Eli W. Scott, thereupon casually displayed two large and luscious catfish. She caught them in a few idle moments in a small creek on Boucher's property—not 100 feet from his house.

Not There Now

Los Angeles, April 16 (AP)—Someone stole home on Dean Daily. Doan, who manages an airport, reported to police the theft of a 15 by 20-foot frame building from his premises. He discovered his loss, he said, when he took a prospective tenant to inspect the house. It wasn't

Domestic Arts Law Provides Added Funds From State

Annual Help Limit
Is $10,000 for Any
One Organization
in State

Albany, N. Y., April 16 (AP)—An increase from $400,000 to $450,000 in annual state aid for the local promotion of agriculture and domestic arts was approved today by Governor Dewey.

The funds are distributed to county and local agricultural societies and to the American Institute of the city of New York. The annual limit of aid to any one organization will be increased from $2,000 to $10,000, under terms of a bill signed by the governor.

Dewey also signed a bill making permanent a temporary wartime measure which exempts all newspapermen from jury duty. He vetoed a bill which would have released from individual liability under the workmen's compensation law all employers insured with stock or mutual insurance carriers. Employers insured with the state compensation fund already are free from individual liability.

Also vetoed were bills which would have increased the limit of branches which may be maintained by savings and loan associations in cities of 250,000 or more, and guaranteed restoration of legal competency for all persons discharged from mental hospitals as "recovered."

Today's action by the governor brought the total number of new laws this year to 763.

There are 397 measures on which the governor still must act by April 25—end of the "20-day bill period" which began on the last day of the legislative session. All bills remaining unsigned then are automatically killed.

Las Vegas, Nev., April 16 (AP)—Edward W. Clark, 74, banker and Democratic national committee man who guided the political organization in southern Nevada, died last night. He had been in failing health for some months. Born in San Jose, he was brought to Pioche at the age of six months. His father was the first sheriff of Virginia City.

there in its accustomed place, and it still isn't.

Tulip Time

Centralia, Ill., April 16 (AP)—Amid police complaints of too much tip-toeing through tulip beds with a coincident stealing of blooms, Fire Chief Herbert Bush admitted he watched his garden invaded.

Chief Bush said a young miss, about two years old, was about to harvest his favorite tulip bed when he demanded to know where his tulips were going.

"To my mother for her birthday," the baby replied as she plucked the last tulip and walked away.

Ambition

Jasper, Mo., April 16 (AP)—For

41 years as a railway postman, a practicing attorney, justice of the peace, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, secretary of the school board, notary public, real estate salesman, and director of Main street. He also has a garden in which he sometimes putters.

Brewer's Mansion Destroyed by Fire

Roslyn, N. Y., April 16 (AP)—The palatial, 32-room mansion of brewery magnate Samuel Rubel was destroyed last night in a five-alarm fire which police said caused an estimated $750,000 damage.

Earlier police had reported a $1,750,000 damage figure, which included jewelry kept in a house safe.

Nassau County Fire Marshal George Clough said the 1½ hour blaze was set off by a short circuit caused when a painter ran a scraper over wires in a wall light switch.

No one was injured in the fire which spread to a nearby wooded area and threatened briefly to extend to this Long Island town. The fire's spread, however, was checked by a backfire set by volunteers.

Rubel is president of the Rubel Corporation and of the Rubel Brewing Company in New York.

GI's Who Would Dance Will Get Money to Learn

Arthur Murray Reports He Has Been Given Power to Produce Dance Masters

Washington, April 16 (AP)—It may be shocking news to hard-boiled drill sergeants, but the G.I. Bill of Rights definitely is ready to finance the ex-doughfoot who aspires to becoming a dancing master.

The tidings came from Arthur Murray, who specializes in teaching people how to trip the light fantastic in its many variations, including jitterbug style.

However, Murray does not anticipate any stampede of ex-G.I.s to learn jitterbugging at "Uncle Sugar's" expense. "They know how to do that already," he said while visiting one of his studios.

Murray told a reporter that his New York and Washington studios have been certified to teach veterans dancing. They can accept pupils under the G.I. bill and the government foots the bill. He said about half of his New York pupils want to teach dancing.

Most of the others, he added, came at the prodding of psychiatrists. "They need social contacts," Murray said. "Dancing gives them confidence and helps them to get readjusted."

A Veterans' Administration official said if a fellow wants to learn how to be a dancer, that's his business.

On the Other Hand
This official added that if the veteran never intended to use dancing as a business, but just thought dancing might improve his Saturday night technique, there's nothing V.A. can do about it.

"But that's true of any veteran," he added. "We can help him get an education, but we can't force him to use it."

The V.A. man said the barracks are full of men with unusual ambitions. Such as the G.I. in Greenland who wondered about silver-smithing. And the guy in Switzerland who fell in love with a Swiss watch. He wrote in to apply for a course in watch-making.

But the V.A. is proudest of persons like William O'Hara. He was a navigator of a Flying Fortress that cold night of November 8, 1942, when it crashed in Iceland. Four frigid months it took to rescue that crew. And William O'Hara was carried out, never to walk on his own legs again.

They were amputated after he got back in the U. S. But lack of legs didn't stop O'Hara. He enrolled in Georgetown University Law School here, and became an honor student.

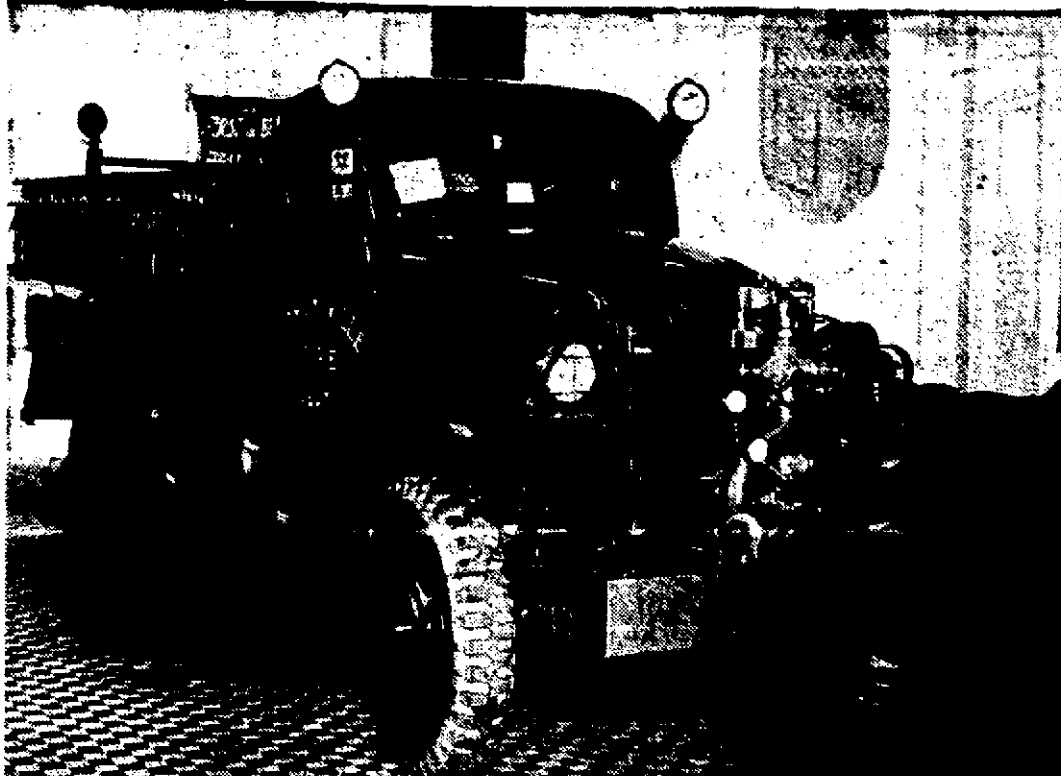

Why don't you drop around April 25? This is a great occasion for a gallant guy. That's when William O'Hara will be admitted to the bar and become a full fledged lawyer.

Lomontville Truck Is Exhibited

The Lomontville fire company's fine new fire truck is on exhibition in the show rooms of the Colonial City Chevrolet at 795 Broadway. The truck is Army surplus and was purchased by the Lomontville firemen for $900, which is about one-quarter its original cost. The Chevrolet people have replaced the original Army paint with a striking coat of fire department red and added the appropriate lettering.

The truck is powered with a Chevrolet engine and with complete equipment weighs six tons. Equipment includes a 300-gallon pump and a 350-gallon booster tank. It has a four-wheel drive. Meanwhile the public-spirited people of Lomontville have raised funds for a new fire house, which is in course of construction, side walls being up. The building is to be of brick, 24 x 36 feet over all.

It will be painted red, and with a red roof, and the new red truck installed ultimately the Lomontville fire fighters feel that they will be sitting on top of the world, firemanically speaking. E. B. Shumate heads the Lomontville board of fire commissioners. William Kohler is president and Mark Bryant, chief of the fire company. (Freeman Photo.)

"BOUGHTEN IS QUANT"

The following letter brings to me a definite nostalgia: 'Is it proper to say "boughten bread" instead of "baker's bread"? You will settle an argument by answering this even though it may not be etiquette in the strictest sense.

The word "boughten" is, I know, local United States, but it was the one word that my own mother in her otherwise not-at-all local vocabulary always used. Therefore, I can't be impersonal in my judgment of it. It is certainly not a vulgarity, but I agree it is quaint.

Introducing an English Bride
Dear Mrs. Post: Who should give a party to introduce an English war bride to friends and relatives? The young husband has been home and out of the Army for some time, but his wife could not join him before this. He has their house all ready and is practicing medicine. His parents live in the same town and have offered to give the party. He thinks maybe he is the logical one to give it.

Answer: Either would be correct. It is merely a question as to which house would lend itself best.

Announcing Widow's Marriage
Dear Mrs. Post: Is it correct for the parents to announce the marriage of a widow-bride when she is not yet thirty?

Answer: Certainly. Helping a Lady Across Street
Dear Mrs. Post: Is it correct manners for a man, whether young or old, to take hold of the arm of a lady walking with him when they come to street crossings?

Answer: A gentleman never should take hold of a lady's arm unless to save her from danger. However, he may offer his arm to her whenever the going is bad, particularly in the evening. She may take it or not as she pleases.

How early are wedding invitations mailed? The answer as found in Mrs. Post's leaflet, "Wedding Invitations and Announcements," obtainable for a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to her in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

1,549 Men Killed In Mine in 1942 Under Jap Rule

Chinese and Koreans Died in Manchuria; Blast Was Set Off by Short Circuit

Tokyo, April 16 (AP)—The world's worst mining disaster—an underground explosion which snuffed out 1,549 Chinese and Korean lives in the Honkeiko colliery in Manchuria—was reported for the first time today by Allied headquarters—almost four years after it happened.

The accident occurred April 26, 1942, under Japanese occupation. It was kept secret by the military from even the Japanese government for a month.

The explosion was set off by a short circuit which ignited methane gas. Most of the deaths were caused by carbon monoxide poisoning because a mine official refused to turn on ventilating fans for fear of spreading the fire, Cammack said.

Cereal Story
Bern, Switzerland (AP)—The Allies have allocated 175,000 tons of cereals to Switzerland for 1946, although the Swiss asked for 500,000 tons, according to the paper, Swiss Trade News, which said Switzerland needed 400,000 tons to maintain its daily bread ration of 250 grams.

Holt Says Camp Prisoners Beaten in Vicious Manner

He Had Refused Earlier, Because He Feared Retaliation; Given Assurance

Lichfield, Eng., April 16 (AP)—A G.I. prisoner who refused to testify last week in the Lichfield detention camp trial because he said he was "afraid" of retaliation, returned to the witness stand today and asserted that Americans in the camp were viciously beaten. He was Otto C. Holt, 415 North Douglas street, Gilman, Ill., a witness in the court martial of Staff Sgt. James M. Jones of Muskogee, Okla., who is charged with assaulting Lichfield prisoners.

In reply to a defense question, Holt said he had been assured by Brig. Gen. Edward C. Betts, theatre judge advocate, that he would not be "mistreated" for giving evidence. Holt and four other prisoners previously had refused to testify unless they had the assurance of Secretary of War Patterson or some other high Washington official that they would not be mistreated for what they might say. Holt said when he was first called to the stand last week that "I don't believe it would be safe for me to testify—officers in this camp don't approve of our testifying."

He said this morning that he had seen Jones force another prisoner against a courtyard wall at Lichfield and beat him in the stomach with his fists for 20 minutes.

Holt also testified that a group of guards—among them Jones—had beaten another prisoner in the courtyard until he foamed and bled at the mouth. He said this prisoner later was taken to the hospital.

No explanation was given concerning the unexpected recess which was called last Friday at the request of an unidentified "high authority."

Wage Increase Is Asked for U. S. Railway Workers

Chicago, April 16 (AP)—An additional wage increase of 14 cents an hour for more than one million railroad workers employed on 130 of the nation's carriers was asked yesterday in notices filed by 15 non-operating brotherhoods.

The 1,050,000 workers, together with about 200,000 members of three operating brotherhoods, were granted wage hikes of 16 cents an hour on April 3 by government arbitration boards. The new raise the 15 unions asked represents the difference between the original demand of 30 cents and the 16 cents awarded by the board which union spokesmen had termed "wholly inadequate."

The new proceedings do not involve the five operating brotherhoods.

Spokesmen for the railroads, who yesterday in Washington applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a 25 per cent raise in freight rates, with certain exceptions, said the 16 cent pay hike would add $619,000,000 to the 1946 wage costs.

New Team Added To Baseball Loop Replacing Jewels

Failure to Post Entry Fees Causes Change; Grandstand Club Accepted by League

The Grandstand Tavern team of Newburgh was named to replace the Newburgh Shapero Jewels in the Mid-Hudson Valley Baseball League by Elliott B. Collson, Poughkeepsie, secretary. The Jewels were dropped from the newly organized league when that team failed to post entrance and forfeit fees.

Collson, speaking on behalf of the league, said he regretted the action that the Jewels had to be forced out of the circuit, but added that league officials had no other alternative since no fees had been forwarded by the Jewels.

The Grandstand club officially became a member of the Mid-Hudson Valley League when Managers Oscar Reale and Tony Donato posted fees with officials of the loop yesterday.

The league will open its season Sunday, May 19, with a four game slate.

2. The correct stance is necessary to good golf. Let's get clear the difference in the stance with different clubs. The driver's stance (see picture) is a square stance with the toes equidistant from the direction line, the right foot almost, but not quite at right angle to it, the left foot slightly pointing toward the hole to permit a fuller, freer, follow through. As the clubs shorten in length from driver down to niblick the angle at which the shaft leaves the clubhead grows smaller until in a niblick the shaft is only a little short of being at right angles to the blade. Thus, the shorter the club the closer you stand to the ball. As you use each shorter club several changes are necessary. Your heels are brought closer together; your left foot is closer to the ball; your right foot is further back from the direction line. And you bend more over the ball and use more perpendicular swing. If this is not clear, I shall be glad to send my diagram of the Correct Stance for each club in the bag. Enclose stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

Kok-Sagiz Crop Thrives

The small autonomous republic of Chuvash, with a population of 1,078,000 and situated 350 miles due east of Moscow, has built up a good business with the Russian Government in kok-sagiz (Russian dandelion) roots. These are used as a coffee substitute and for drugs. Chuvash supplied the Soviet with 585,865 pounds of kok-sagiz last year. Its cultivation in the republic was started four years ago. Dandelion seeds also are supplied.
